Dr. Peter Molinare Found Shot Dead In Home At Escanaba

Dr. Peter B. Molinare, 32, Escanaba veterinarian, was found dead of a gunshot wound in the basement of his home, 810 S. 13th street, this morning. He had been in ill health recently and was dismissed Wednesday from St. Francis hospital, where he had been treated for a nervous condition.

Police who investigated the case reported that Dr. Molinare had died of rifle wound in the head, apparently self-inflicted. He was alone in the house at the time, his wife having left to take their son to school. Police were notified at 9:41 a. m. by a physician who had been called by Mrs. Molinare after she returned home to find her husband dead. Coroner Kevill Murphy also was called to investigate.

The Molinares recently purchased the residence at 810 S. 13th street from Mrs. Helen McNabb, and had moved in the home only three days ago.

Dr. Molinare was born Feb. 10, 1918. He was a native of Norway, Mich., and graduated from Michigan State College in 1944. Following his discharge from the armed forces, he served an internship under Dr. C. H. Dohner of Reedsburg, Wisconsin, and later was employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He came to Escanaba in August, 1946 and began veterinary practice at 1609 Ludington street.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Peter. Survivors also include a brother, Frank Molinare, county agricultural agent in Dickinson county.

Election Runs Into Holy Day

LANSING—(AP)—Legislation to avoid a conflict between this year's primary election and Rosh Hoshana, a Hebrew holy day, passed the Senate unanimously yesterday.

The measure, which now goes to the House, would permit persons to vote by absentee ballot if they are prevented from going to the polls by a religious observance.

The bill applies to all religions, but as far as is known the Hebrew holiday is the only one falling on September 12, this year's primary day.

The House scheduled hot debate today on the often-postponed Hittle bill to regulate auto purchase financing. Numerous amendment, both weakening and strengthening the measure, were ready for introduction.

There was a movement on foot behind the scenes, however, to reach a compromise between opponents and supporters of the bill.

The bill would limit auto finance charges and license and regulate finance companies, dealers and banks handling auto financing.

A proposed constitutional amendment providing for annual regular sessions of the legislature was reported favorable by the House committee on revision and amendment of the constitution by a seven to one vote.

Yen To Climb Trees Fatal To Pontiac Boy

PONTIAC, Mich. — A young boy's yen to climb trees brought death yesterday to Howard Kendrick, a third grade pupil.

Howard, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kendrick of (348 Seward) Pontiac, was found lying dead beneath a tree near wooded Murphy park. His neck was broken.

Under the tree authorities found a broken branch and twigs. They said he had fallen about 50 feet.

Pepper Defeat Reasons Differ

(By The Associated Press)

You could take your choice today of what caused Rep. George Smathers' one-sided defeat of New Deal Senator Claude Pepper in Florida's Democratic primary last Tuesday.

Smathers himself called it "a victory of liberalism as opposed to radicalism"—proof, he said, that the people of Florida "do not wish to venture off down the side roads of extremism or socialism."

Senator Taft (D-Ohio) saw as the significant thing "that the labor people went down there to defeat Smathers because he was for the Taft-Hartley law." Taft added that "the people were for it and I believe that indicates the attitude in other states."

Jack Kroll, director of the CIO political action committee, viewed the Tuesday results as the triumph of "a sinister conspiracy" to impose "upon our country a cruel and reactionary program." He added: "The tactics we have just seen in Florida will soon be used in every state" and "this challenge will be met."

With only 10 precincts missing out of the state's 1,595, the unofficial tally was 382,949 for Smathers and 319,178 for Pepper.

Michigan Builds Up New Organization For Disaster And Defense

LANSING—(AP)—Michigan began today to build a natural disaster and civilian defense organization.

A skeleton plan for the combination peace and wartime organization was approved yesterday by an advisory council meeting with governor Williams.

Williams agreed to write the chief executives of all municipalities of 2,000 or more population, asking them either to assign a contact man to work with the state council or to appoint a local civilian defense council.

A master planning committee and 19 technical committees will be named later.

The technical committees will direct surveys of the state's facilities and requirements in such fields as fire fighting equipment, police protection, food protection, health and others.

Family Has First Girl In 122 Years

BOYNTON, Okla.—(AP)—A girl has been born into the Kirbey family—and it's the first time in 122 years.

The Kirbey storks had been totin' male heirs.

But Mrs. F. V. Kirbey changed that recently when she gave birth to 6-pound Frances Elizabeth at St. John's hospital in Tulsa.

Ike Kirbey, former publisher of the Boynton Index and grandfather of the baby, announced the event with loud acclaim here.

Child, mother, father—and grandparents—are doing well.

Conservation Search Bill Up Wednesday

LANSING—(AP)—A public hearing on a bill proposing to restore some of the powers of conservation officers was set today for Wednesday by the house conservation committee.

The bill, which passed the senate Tuesday, would constitute the conservation officers peace officers and thus return their right to carry guns and permit them to make searches when they have "probable cause" to suspect a violation had been committed.

Clamps Sought On East-West Trade System

Acheson Told To Use Pressure In London

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of State Acheson is being urged by the Commerce department to bring strong pressure on western European leaders to tighten their controls on trade with eastern Europe.

He will see these leaders at London next week.

Commerce oficials are reported to be concerned at what they consider discriminations against American business arising out of differences in the controls systems operated by the western European countries and the United States.

Aid May Be Barred

East-West trade policies are expected to be among the subjects discussed by Acheson with British Foreign Minister Bevin, French Foreign Minister Schuman and other foreign ministers whom he will met in London.

A memorandum from Commerce to the State Department, it was reported today, advocates that Acheson take a strong line with the other conferees, raising a question of whether the United States will continue economic aid to those countries which persist in exporting to eastern European countries types of goods which the United States either embargoes or sharply controls.

Raw Materials Needed

The economic cooperation administration is forbidden by law from financing production of European goods which go into markets from which similar types of American goods are embargoed. Officials said this provision is carefully enforced.

At the same time, in the State Department's view, the countries of western Europe have great need for the grain, potash, coal and other raw materials they get from the east. This is regarded by State Department oficials as an overriding consideration in favor of flexible as oposed to rigid trade control systems in the west.

Unified Front Is Aim Of AFL

By HERB ALTSCHULL

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The American Federation of Labor's executive council meets in Philadelphia next week with the biggest item on its agenda a proposal for a unified labor front, particularly in political action.

And some AFL leaders predict that the 500,000-member International Association of Machinists, which quit the AFL four years ago, will reaffiliate during the sessions which open Monday at the Ritz-Carlton hotel.

Simultaneously with the spring meeting of the 15-member executive council, the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor will hold its annual convention at the Benjamin Franklin hotel.

Two days earlier, on Saturday, the AFL will open its fifth union industries show at Convention Hall. More than $1,500,000 worth of products made by union members will be on display.

All the union activity has prompted Mayor Bernard Samuel to proclaim next week "AFL Week" in Philadelphia.

Air Bombs Kill 14 At Catania, Sicily

CATANIA, Sicily—(AP)—A deposit of heavy caliber aerial bombs exploded with a tremendous roar near Catania today, killing at least 14 persons.

At least three persons were injured, two seriously.

The blast rocked this city of 245,000 population.

The deposit was in the suburb of Bicocca. The explosion gouged a hole 25 feet deep.

World Unrest Spurs Extension Of Draft

WASHINGTON—(AP)— The House armed services committee voted 31 to 0 today to extend the military draft another two years. Congress would decide, however, when there would be any actual inductions.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) said the draft extension will be put up to the House immediately for passage. The present selective service act is due to expire June 24.

The committee acted after hearing top foreign policy and defense officials describe mounting world unrest.

The legislation would:

1. Extend the selective service act—which expires June 24—for two years.

2. Bar any inductions until Congress has given the signal by declaring a national emergency.

3. Curb the president's power to mobilize industry and seize plants essential to war until Congress declares an emergency.

4. Continue to require every male between the ages of 18 and 26 who lives in the United States to register—unless he already has done so—and take a physical examination to determine his fitness for military duty.

5. Authorize the president to order to active duty for 21 months all reserves and retired personnel of the armed forces after an emergency is declared by Congress.

6. Permit any peacetime inductee under 19 to decline active military duty upon his own application or that of his parents or guardians.

7. Drop provisions for voluntary enlistments by 18-year-olds for one year and by older men for 21 motnhs during peacetime.

Chrysler And UAW End 99-Day Walkout

Union Wins $100 Pensions And Benefits

Over 89,000 Return To Jobs Monday

By GLENN ENGLE

DETROIT — (AP) — The billion-dollar-plus Chrysler strike was settled today—an hour and a half before it became 100 days old.

The CIO United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp. signed a contract at 8:25 a. m. (EST) carrying $100 monthly pensions, including social security benefits, for workers 65 with 25 years service. The contract runs for three years and also boosts wages in some plants, and hikes workers' medical and hospital benefits.

Approval Automatic

The 89,000 striking Chrysler unionists will begin returning to work Monday. Most of the fifty thousand idled in supplier plants will follow them, though some supplier firms already have recalled their workers.

Chrysler is shooting at maximum car and truck production within two weeks in its 25 Chrysler, Dodge, De Soto and Plymouth plants across the country.

Local unions will vote on ratification of the contract Saturday, but none is expected to reject it. Approval usually is automatic.

New Gains Claimed

UAW President Walter Reuther claimed these gains in addition to pensions and hospital-medical and insurance benefits:

Three-cents an hour more for workers in Chrysler plants at Kokomo, New Castle and Evansville, Ind.

Three to 13 cents an hour more for workers in several Chrysler parts plants. (Not immediately named).

A boost of $31.10 a year in vacation pay for workers with three to five years service. (It is customary in the auto industry to take pay in lieu of vacations.)

A check-off of union dues. (A plan under which the company deducts union dues from wage payments).

Strike Unnecessary

The UAW lost its demand for a union shop, under which all workers would have been forced to join the union—after obtaining jobs if not before.

The company still contends the union could have got virtually what it received today without the strike, which cost an estimated $1,383,720,880 in lost wages and sales.

Only the General Motors strike of 1945-46 lasted longer or cost more. It cost $1,457,000,000 and lasted 113 days.

The union claims its gains equal the "10-cents-an-hour package" it demanded when it called the walkout.

MacArthur Spikes Soviet Charge About Building Up Jap Bastions

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO—(AP)—General MacArthur today rebuked as "provacative impertinence" a Russian claim that maintenance of American military bases in Japan violates Allied occupation policies.

In a sharp 250 words the supreme commander dismissed yesterday's demand by Lt. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko for an explanation of the "reconstruction of the former Japanese naval air bases" in Japan and Okinawa.

MacArthur told the top Russian representative in Japan that Okinawa does not come under international control. He continued:

"The United States government is entirely free to take such military measures therein as it may deem advisable. Your inquiry concerning this matter is therefore a presumption without the slightest excuse of validity."

MacArthur told Derevyanko that "your professed anxiety with reference to Japan proper, which is subject to limited international supervision, is quite groundless."

The Allied commander went on to say the demilitarization ordered by the far eastern commission has been accomplished, and he added:

"As for bases and installations for the forces of occupation, both American and British, they are—and will continue to be so long as occupation lasts—maintained in a condition of such adequacy and preparedness as will insure the fullest security, operational efficiency, and most complete readiness for any eventuality."

He bluntly informed the Russian that military details about Japanese bases "are matters which concern only their commanders."

MacArthur said the future of these bases can be determined only by a Japanese peace treaty.

The occupation chief concluded: "All of these facts are so well known to you, who have been here from the beginning of the occupation, that I cannot accept the integrity of intent of your letter. It can only be regarded as a vehicle of propaganda or a provacative impertinence."

Finland Threatened By General Strike

HELSINKI, Finland—Finland is threatened with a general strike next Monday unless the coalition government adjusts wages and prices to the satisfaction of the socialist-dominated Trades Union Congress (TUC).

The TUC issued the ultimatum last night, demanding that Premier Urho Kekkonen's center coalition government solve what was described as "the conflict between prices and wages."

The threat came soon after the government drafted into military service 2,000 of Finland's 4,500 trainmen on strike for higher pensions.

Appointees Confirmed

LANSING — (AP) — The senate yesterday confirmed Governor Williams' appointment of Richard E. Allingham of Escanaba to the board of managers of the Upper Peninsula State Fair and Maxwell K. Reynolds of Marquette to the state crippled children's commission.

Muskegon Man Heads USCC

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Otto A. Seyferth, president of the West Michigan Foundry Co., Muskegon, is the new president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The Michigan industrialist, a one time union organizer, was elected by the board of directors yesterday to represent the 1,300,000 businessmen who make up the organization. He succeeds Herman W. Steinkraus, president of the Bridgeport, Conn., Brass Co.

Seyferth is chairman of the Michigan economic development commission, a director of Ripon college, Wisconsin, and on the board of directors of a half-dozen mid-western corporations. He was born in Grand Rapids.

Seyferth left school at 13 and became a machinist's apprentice at $4 a week. After trying stone carving for a time, he returned to the machinist's trade and soon became president of his local union and eventually president of the local AFL Trades and Labor Council.

He went to work for Bonbright and Co., New York investment bankers, in 1919 at $100 a month. He soon became widely known for reorganizing financially distressed companies and went into that work on his own.

Seyferth's foundry in Muskegon employs 500 men and produces 1,000 tons a month. He also heads the Austin Trailer Equipment Co. and the Austin Machinery Co.

Side Saddle Owned For 3 Generations Presented To MSC

EAST LANSING — (AP) — An ornate side-saddle that has been in her family three generations has been presented to the Michigan State college museum by Suzanne Marie Williams, MSC junior from Owosso.

The saddle was first used in 1795 by Mary Miles, great-great-great-grandmother of the MSC coed, who lived then in Connecticut.

It was obtained in 1899 by P. V. M. Batsford, great great grandfather of the donor, who was a state representative from Saginaw in the 1890's.

From that point it was handed down through two more generations to Suzanne from her grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Williams, who now lives on the family farm between Owosso and Perry.

Ecorse Man Admits Killing 'Best Son'

DETROIT — (AP) — William Spence, 65, was held without charge today for questioning in the shotgun slaying of his son, Walter, 31.

Officials quoted him as saying, "I was drunk. He was my best son."

The family tragedy occurred last night in the yard between Walter Spence's home and his father's small house on the rear of the lot in suburban Ecorse township. Walter's wife, Madge, told police the shooting climaxed a long-standing domestic quarrel.

Woman, 71, Perishes In River Rouge Fire

DETROIT — (AP)—Tenants fled from a small River Rouge apartment dwelling in a fire Monday.

They told firemen they believed no one else was inside.

But they forgot about Mrs. Lena Westcott, 71. The elderly woman, overcome by smoke, before she was found, died yesterday in Wayne county general hospital.

Silver Dollars Start Moving In Marquette

MARQUETTE, Mich. — (AP) — Silver dollars—10,000 of them — will begin rolling into Marquette pockets and cash registers tomorrow when Northern Michigan College of Education launches an unusual demonstration.

Beginning Friday, students and faculty members will be asked to pay their bills in cartwheels for the following 10 days.

Object of the demonstration, according to college president H. A. Tape, is to illustrate the economic importance of the institution to the communisty.

"In order that everyone may know whence these silver dollars have come, we are hoping that merchants and other citizens in the city will in turn use these coins to pay their bills," Tape said.

Senate Gambling Quiz Hunts Mystery Wire

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senate gambling investigators peered toward the shadowy reaches of the underworld today in search of a mystery wire network carrying race news to bookmakers.

Tano Lococo and Eddie "Spitz" Osadchey, identified by a federal grand jury as henchmen of a slain Kansas City gangster, were called to shed some light on the wire operations—missing link in a Senate commerce subcommittee's probe of big-time gambling.

After the subcommittee winds up its hearings, a special five-man Senate committee will open an overall investigation into organized gambling and crime syndicate operations.

The Senate approved the $150,000 special inquiry late yesterday. It will be entirely separate from the present study of proposed legislation to ban the movement of gambling information across state lines.

This study has followed the flow of racing news throughout the country to many distributing points but hasn't turned up the missing link between distributor and bookie.

A federal grand jury report on the recent slaying of political leader Charles Binaggio and mobster Charles Gargotta said race results in Kansas City were distributed by the Standard News Service.

This service, the report added, was owned by Gargotta, Lococo, Osadchey and Morris "Snag" Klein. Klein is now serving a prison sentence in Leavenworth.

Potter Calls For Funds To Fight Lamprey

More Work Outlined To Save Lake Trout

By JOE HALL
AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Potter (R-Mich.) today served notice he will try next year to double the allotment of federal funds to fight the depredations of the lamprey in the Great Lakes region.

The Michigan congressman told the House that progress has been made in fighting the lampreys but said more funds would be needed if their raids on lake trout and other fish are to be halted.

Five-Year Program

He spoke during debate on interior department funds in the appropriations bill.

The Fish and Wildlife Service would get $203,000 to fight lampreys in the year starting July 1. This compares with $269,000 this fiscal year.

Potter last year won approval of a $216,000 annual authorization to combat the lampreys. This program was to begin July 1 this year and extend for five years.

However, he told the House in his prepared speech he would try next session to raise this authorization to about $400,000.

Job Getting Bigger

He explained to newsmen that the Fish and Wildlife Service had underestimated the amount needed for the job.

The service already has erected two weirs near Rogers City, Mich., to catch lampreys on the way up streams to spawn, Potter said. Many more weirs are planned, he explained, and the government men also expect to use chemicals on the eels' larvae beds.

Potter said the service is drawing plans for a special boat to be used as a floating laboratory in the fight. It also has experimented with tagging lampreys and putting them back in the water to trace their movements.

Lansing Solons Juggle Budget

LANSING — (AP) — Plans to wind up the 1950 legislative session next week faded fast today.

The new budget was not ready on schedule—and probably won't be in time to end the session by May 12 as hoped.

Legislative finance leaders began to talk of adjournment about May 17, but some guesses ran as late as May 19.

Failure to smooth out final details prevented the Republican chiefs from meeting a series of deadlines. These called for House-Senate committee agreements by the middle of this week, G.O.P. caucuses in both chambers before the end of the week to sell the budget cuts to members, and quick passage of the budget next week.

The two appropriations committees virtually have junked the administration's $343,000,000 budget, and are writing their own.

Instructed by the Republican caucuses to seek a budget about $30,000,000 less than was appropriated for this year, the committees reportedly are achieving about half that. This would indicate a budget of about $260,000,000.

Forest Camp Season Near

Clear Lake Area To Be Ready

Applications for use of the Clear Lake camp are being received at the Upper Michigan national forest headquarters here, Supervisor C. L. Harrison said today.

The camp, located on the Hiawatha national forest eight miles from Shingleton, has facilities for groups of 32 to 64 persons. It is designed especially for such groups as Salvation Army, church organizations, underprivileged children, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H clubs and other community groups.

Besides two large contral buildings for administration, recreation, dining and kitchen facilities, there are eight cabins each containing eight metal cots and individual clothes lockers.

The camp has an electric light plant, and water and sanitary sewers.
sewer systems.

Recreation facilities include two play fields, horseshoe courts, outdoor theater, two bathing beaches, diving floats, row boats and a landing dock. There are outside fireplaces, tables and cupboards.

Last year the camp was leased to Northern Michigan College of Education.

Groups wishing to lease the camp for a week or longer may contact forest service headquarters here or the district ranger's office in Munising.

Concert Drive Progresses Well

Response to the Escanaba Community Concert association drive for memberships has been good, Scott Runge, a member of the board of directors, announced today.

A series of four concerts by top-ranking artists will be given here during the 1950-51 season. Artists who will perform here will be selected at a board meeting of the association Saturday afternoon.

Only two more days remain before the drive is completed. Admission to all the concerts will be restricted to persons purchasing memberships in the association this week. No box office admissions will be sold for any of the concerts.

Campaign headquarters have been established in the Sherman Hotel and a canvass of residents in Escanaba and Gladstone is now underway. Gladstone persons may obtain memberships at the Central Pharmacy.

Fence Company Reports Good Outlook For 1950

The Fence Company of America reports a sharp upturn in demand for its products and soon will increase the crew at its Escanaba plant on 23rd street from 30 to 45 men.

William Winkler, local manager, said a boom in outdoor theatre construction all over the country has spurred the demand for its pre-fabricated fences, ticket offices, marquees, concession stands and screen towers. In addition, the Fence company is getting more orders for rustic fences for city homes and country estates as a result of a change in its dealership set-up and the resumption of residential construction this spring.

Sales Office in Chicago

Harold Arnum, president and general manager of company, continues to maintain the sales office in Chicago.

The Escanaba plant has supplied already this spring the fence material for about thirty outdoor theatres in various parts of the country. Shipments have averaged three carloads per week, and will be doubled in the near future. This week, a shipment was made to an outdoor theatre project in Delmar, Delaware. Others have gone to Texas, Kansas, Iowa and other sections of the Middle West.

More than half the fencing, produced at the Escanaba plant, now goes into outdoor theatres. Winkler said however, there has been a noticeable pickup of late in the sales of rustic picket fences for homes. The company also produces stockades for homeowners who wish to obtain more privacy in their backyards.

Will Buy Million Posts

The Fence company purchased 42,000 cedar posts from farmers and timber jobbers in the area last week, Winkler said. Purchases will total about one million posts in 1950. The requirements consist of seven-foot posts of two and three-inch tops, and 10-foot timbers of four-inch diameter and larger. Most posts are trucked here from Delta, Dickinson, Schoolcraft and Marquette counties.

Development of a rustic playhouse for children, four by six feet, has created a new market for hemlock, pine and cedar slabs. A trucker visits the various portable mills in the area to collect the slabs and haul them to the plant here. The rustic playhouses are marketed through Marshall Field and Carson Pirie & Scott in Chicago, J. L. Hudson in Detroit and other department store outlets.

The Fence company prefabricates log cabins for recreational use. Its line also includes picnic tables and other rustic furniture.

Mrs. John Stark Dies In Newberry

Funeral Services Will Be Saturday

NEWBERRY—Mrs. John Stark, 86, one of Newberry's oldest pioneer citizens, died at her home here on Wednesday after a short illness.

Funeral services will take place Saturday at 2:30 p. m. from Messiah Lutheran church. Burial will be in the Newberry cemetery.

Mrs. Stark was born in Kalmar, Sweden, moving to Newberry in 1889 where she was married. She was active in civic and church affairs, having been a charter member of Messiah Lutheran church, a life member of the Order of the Eastern Star and a charter member of United Service organization.

Surviving her are her husband, a retired building contractor, two sons, four daughters, 15 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. One grandson, Lowell Sundstrom, lives in Escanaba.

Boys Will Attend Carriers Jamboree

They are: Richard Cass, Dudley Lund, Donald Harrison, Donald Guimond, Dick Moreau, Jimmie Moreau, Roger Barry, Ronnie Menard, Sonny Menard and Robert Bushey.

They were accompanied by their chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moreau, Mrs. Harry Menard and Mrs. Walter Menard.

Boys Damage Vacant House

Destruction Total May Be $1,000

Three boys 15 and 16 years old have confessed to a destructive spree in which they nearly wrecked a vacant house at Newhall, causing damage estimated by the owner at between $500 and $1,000, it was reported today by sheriff's officers.

The property is owned by Ed Germain, who did not discover the damage until a short time after he returned from a vacation trip to Florida. The house completely furnished, had been closed for the winter.

The three boys confessed that they entered the house one Sunday afternoon about five weeks ago. Two of the boys are wards of the state and are being cared for in boarding homes at Newhall.

They told Deputy Sheriff Emil Johnson that they did not know the owner of the house and there was no motive for their act.

All of the windows of the house were broken, the panels of the doors smashed, chairs, tables and other furnishings were broken, and beds thrown out of second-story windows.

Deputy Sheriff Johnson yesterday learned the identity of the boys and obtained a confession from them. The two boys who are wards of the state will be interviewed Saturday following the arrival here of an official of the state agency under which the boys were placed in the foster homes.

Meet Tonight At Bark River On New School

BARK RIVER—A public meeting to discuss plans for building a new Bark River-Harris school will be held tonight at 8:15 at the Bark River town hall, Supt. Leo Brunelle said today.

The architect will be present to outline the plans and answer any questions.

All parents and taxpayers are cordially invited.

State Schedules Hearing On U. P. Water Pollution

C&NW Exhibit At C-C Office

Value Of Forests Is Depicted

The Chicago and North Western railway has assembled an attractive forestry exhibit for public inspection at the office of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

William Kluender of St. Paul, forestry agent of the Chicago and North Western railway, said the display would be kept in the C. of C. windows for a couple weeks.

The exhibit consists of photographs of lumbering and forestry practices. A recessed section is attractively lighted, and shows a tree planting machine at work on a cutover area. In the background is a forest fire tower. Another portion of the exhibit portrays of realistic forest fire.

Slogans in the exhibit include: "Money does grow on trees. Trees mean jobs."

Kluender and Roy Skog, Marquette, state extension forester, have spent the past week in the Upper Peninsula with the C&NW railway's tree planting machine. Yesterday, they planted 2,000 trees on the Hiawatha club's cutover lands near Engadine. Other mechanical plantings were done at Thompson for the Mead corporation and at Stephenson for the Soil Conservation Service.

Delta MEA Elects District Officers

Norman Slough of the Rapid River high school faculty last night was elected president of the Delta County M. E. A. District at a meeting held at the Bark River-Harris high school. Slough succeeds Conan E. Fisher of Gladstone.

Other officers are George Kulach of Rock, vice president; Amy Johnson of Wells, secretary; and Frank Lepins of the Bark River-Harris school, treasurer.

Leo J. Brunelle, Bark River-Harris superintendent of schools, was elected a delegate to the representative assembly. The alternates are Mary Krutina of Nahma, Walter Peters of Rapid River, and Edward Guindon of Wells.

Milton Findlay of Gladstone was named the delegate to the class room teachers assembly. Alternates are Paul Vardigan of the Wells school, Alvina Sorgenfrei of Rapid River, and Angeline Godin of Perkins.

Young Mother Freed Of Witchcraft Held As Fortune-Teller

WILMINGTON, Del. —(AP)— Judge Thomas Herlihy, jr., has ruled a young mother will not stand trial on charges of practicing witchcraft.

Instead, the jurist ordered Mrs. Helen Evans, 23, held in $300 bail for the grand jury on charges of fortune telling.

Judge Herlihy indicated last March 21 that he would have no part of a witchcraft trial.

He postponed Mrs. Evans' trial on that date and declared "it is unbelievable that a charge of practicing the 'art of witchcraft' could be brought in the enlightened state of Deleware."

He said the law, dating back to the 17th century, is "antiquated and should be repealed."

Mrs. Evans, mother of two children, was arrested by Wilmington detectives March 13. They said that she gave a young woman a charm to sleep on, after telling her that her handwriting indicated she was under a curse. Mrs. Evans has described herself as a character reader and adviser.

Christmas Trees Offer Profits To Landowners

The Christmas tree business is becoming highly competitive and the land owner who adopts the best silvicultural and marketing practices will be the one who will come out on top.

This is the gist of advice offered to Upper Peninsula timberland owners by William Kluender of St. Paul, forestry agent of the Chicago and North Western railway and Roy Skog of Marquette, state extension forester.

Kluender cited examples of the increased interest in the growing of Christmas trees in the territory served by his railroad.

A physician recently purchased 80 acres of sub-marginal land in Northwestern Illinois to start a Christmas tree plantation for his two sons. He plans to have the forest provide funds someday to finance college educations for the two boys.

"The doctor paid $7.50 an acre for wasteland," Kluender said. "It was land that wouldn't sell normally for only $1.50 per acre, but the buyer wasn't worried about it. He has been reading everything he can find about Christmas trees, and he says he is confident he will make it pay out."

Farmers Are Interested

Kluender said Illinois farmers, who now have much cash in their pockets, are investing in trees to be planted on idle lands. He added that, with many acres taken out of agricultural production by government crop control programs, the various farm organizations and leaders are giving serious thought to the possibilities of farm forests and woodlots.

"If Upper Peninsula landowners are to compete in the Christmas tree field it will be necessary for them to do some cultural work," Skog said. "This means they must do some pruning in the spring and early summer to give the trees better shape. They also should top them to hold down the elongated groups."

Skog said not much has been done in the Upper Peninsula thus far in the establishment of Christmas tree plantations. Otto Winkel of Cooks planted balsam, white pine, blue spruce and Douglas fir in a plot near his farm about twelve years ago, but has not yet harvested any of the crop.

Some Upper Peninsula landowners, however, are practicing silviculture in the natural stands of Christmas trees. He cited as an example Adolph Lippens of St. Nicholas, who each year does pruning and thinning to shape the trees on his land.

During the war, Lippens averaged 75 cents a tree, paid by outside buyers on his premises. Last fall, he averaged about sixty cents.

Lippens cuts from 600 to 1,000 trees during a two or three-week period before Christmas. He owns about 400 acres of cutover land, in addition to his farm at St. Nicholas. The Mattila brothers of Rock and William Mosier of Perkins also are doing some cultural work on Christmas trees on wild lands, Skog added.

Sees Demand For Pine

Balsam and spruce are the popular Christmas trees with Upper Peninsula residents, but pine trees are gaining in favor in Chicago and other metropolitan markets, according to Kluender and Skog.

Kluender thinks Norway pine will be in great demand in the future. Skog pointed out that Scotch pine has great possibilities in the Upper Peninsula from the production standpoint. Scotch pine will not pack so well for shipment in trucks, as the limbs are brittle and break easily.

"Four years ago there wasn't a single Norway pine Christmas tree in the Twin Cities farmers' Market," said the St. Paul man. "Last December there wasn't one dealer who didn't have Norway pine in his assortment."

Christmas Tree King

Kluender added that Norway pine trees are made attractive by scattering rayon linters on them, using a detergent or egg white as an adhesive. Roy Halvorson, the Christmas tree king of Duluth, Minn., has done an outstanding job in packaging and marketing 1,000,000 trees annually.

Halvorson uses dyes and paints to make trees more attractive. He also markets them through regular retail outlets, like department stores and chain variety stores, and therefore is not dependent upon any fly-by-night Christmas tree lot operators. He has developed a new gift package, known as the "executive's tree." This is an appealingly tinted and decorated tree, about 18 inches high, which sells for $3.75 to corporations, who buy them in large numbers to send as presents to customers.

The sales talks used by operators of Christmas tree lots in large cities is quite amusing, Skog said. He recalled visiting a Detroit lot, where hawkers were telling prospective customers that a jackpine was Michigan balsam and Scotch pine was Canadian pine. One salesman placed much emphasis on his claim that his trees were "double-needle balsams."

Kluender and Skog are spending this week in the Upper Peninsula in promoting reforestation work. The C&NW tree planting machine was used on Mead corporation land near Thompson and on a Soil Conservation Service project in Menominee county. Both men addressed the forestry conference at Carney Tuesday evening.

Panel Selected For Conference

Edick To Moderate Guidance Session

Edward Edick, principal of Escanaba senior high school, has been selected to serve as moderator of a panel discussion on school guidance work at the Delta County Guidance conference scheduled here May 9.

Four Escanaba teachers, Miss Bernadette Brennan, Miss Alice Jodocy, Miss Lucille Warmington and George Grab, and one Gladstone teacher, Conan E. Fisher, will serve on the panel.

About 25 Delta County teachers are expected to attend the day sessions of the conference and about 100 will be here for the evening session in the Sherman Hotel. Manistique and Cooks schools also will send representatives to the conference.

Three consultants will participate in the sessions. They are Stewart C. Hulslander, counselor-trainer at the University of Michigan; Glenn Smith, staff member of the state department of public instruction; and Wilbur West, director of Guidance at NMCE in Marquette. The consultants will serve with Delta County teachers in the panel discussion, on the role of classroom teachers in the guidance prograc, following a dinner Tuesday evening.

The conference will open at 10 a. m., Tuesday in the House of Ludington. Following a general discussion of conference aims, Stewart Hulslander will speak on the challenge of guidance in school programs.

Group discussions on professional growth of guidance personnel, guidance in elementary schools, and the relation of the counselor to the school program will follow Mr. Hulslander's talk. Wilbur West of NMCE will summarize morning discussions, after which a noon luncheon will be held at the Ludington.

The afternoon session will consist of an analysis of guidance work by Glenn Smith of the state department; and group discussions on follow-up study of graduates and drop-outs, on procedures in assisting students with personal problems, group guidance work and on use of community resources in guidance work.

Cole Will Head Savings Drive

Bond Sales Will Start On May 15

Everett Cole of Escanaba has been appointed by Frank N. Isbey, state chairman of the U. S. Treasury savings bonds division, to serve as chairman of the Delta county savings bonds committee.

Randall R. Penhale of Detroit, deputy director for Michigan, was a visitor in Escanaba yesterday to make plans for the bond selling campaign, which will extend from May 15 to July 4. Mr. Penhale is a former school instructor, having served for some years at Iron River and Negaunee.

Michigan's quota for the campaign, known as the Independence Drive, is $32,834,000. National heads of service clubs, fraternal organizations, business and professional groups, and labor and industry have pledged the support of their organizations in the drive.

Mrs. Kate Mathis, Life-Long Escanaba Resident, Dies

Mrs. Kate Mathis, 80, died unexpectedly yesterday afternoon at the home of her niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Johnson, 1423 First avenue north. She had been suffering from a heart ailment for some time.

Mrs. Mathis was born in Catskill, N. Y., July 19, 1869, and came to Escanaba as a child. She was a member of St. Joseph's church.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Hugh Blake of Ashland, Wis., three sisters, Miss Mary Hemes, Escanaba; Mrs. Fred H. Stracke, Chicago; and Mrs. N. W. May, Wauwatosa, Wis.; one brother, Peter Hermes, Escanaba; three grandchildren and eleven great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 9 Saturday morning at St. Joseph's church, Father Patrick, O. F. M., officiating, and burial will be in Holy Cross cemetery. Friends of the family may call at the Degnan funeral home beginning Friday noon.

Husband Charged With Attempted Murder; Time Bomb On Plane

LOS ANGELES—(AP) — John Henry Grant, an aircraft engineer, has been ordered to face trial on charges that he attempted to murder his family and others by placing a time bomb on an airliner.

He was ordered for trial in Superior court under $50,000 bond after a preliminary hearing in Municipal court yesterday. He is to be arraigned in Superior court May 22.

There were 16 persons aboard the United Airlines plane when a suitcase containing an alarm clock mechanism and tire tube filled with gasoline was discovered before the scheduled takeoff for San Diego last April 17.

Mrs. Betty Grant, 28, the defendant's wife, who first announced that she would stand by her husband, later said she would seek a divorce. Yesterday she was one of the witnesses called by the prosecution, telling how her husband asked her to take out $25,000 flight insurance for herself and their two small children.

Detectives said Grant told them he was heavily in debt.

Dutch Receive First Atlantic Pact Arms

ROTTERDAM, the Netherlands —(AP)—Holland received its first shipments of Atlantic pact arms today despite demonstrations by leftists.

Most of the objectors were women. A number of them were arrested and one demonstrator received a saber cut.

The arms, arriving aboard the U. S. freighters Empire State and Aimee Lykes were unloaded behind a heavy police cordon. Police said work in the entire dock area was proceeding normally.

The women demonstrators distributed "peace partisans" pamphlets protesting against shipment of U. S. arms to Europe.

DOUBLE WINNERS

DETROIT—(AP) —University of Detroit had two double winners yesterday in a dual track meet with Hillsdale College. Detroit won 86-45. Dick Vanden Berg won the high and low hurdles and Wally Gruber grabbed first in the 220 and 440-yard dashes.

Vicious Girl Gangs Irk Denver Police

DENVER — (AP) — Denver police have a headache in girl gangs "more vicious than the boys."

Capt. Leonard Nevin, head of the juvenile bureau, and Policewoman Ruth Mernan made the report yesterday. She said so far the girls have fought mainly over personal grievances between members of rival gangs. No criminal activities are involved. The number of girl gang members was estimated at 200.

"They're tough," Mrs. Mernan said. "None of their fights end until someone is severely hurt and we've heard of at least eight battles in the last two weeks."

Aunt Hannah Slices Mean Cake At 106

CHARLEROI, Pa.—(AP)—"Aunt Hannah" Carson can still cut a mean birthday cake despite her 106 years.

"Aunt Hannah" handled the cake cutting chores yesterday at a birthday party attended by friends and relatives.

Mrs. Carson was permitted to go home for the party from the hospital where she has been under treatment for a stomach disorder.

Her recipe for a long life?

"I believe the good Lord wanted me to live this long and that's why I did."

As she waved to her family and started back to the hospital, she promised: "I'll be bark for number 107."

Marquette Appoints First Dog Warden

MARQUETTE, Mich. — (AP) — For the first time since the war, Marquette has a dog warden.

He is Norman Norr, Trowbridge Park, whose first task will be to conduct a dog census of Marquette.

City Manager James A. Clulo and Police Chief Don Mc Cormick, who hired Norr after the county board of supervisors rejected Marquette's plea for a dog warden, estimated there are between 1,200 and 1,500 dogs in the city.

Under state law, the city can charge the county for all expenses in connection with employment of a dog warden.

World Government Week Proclamation Of Governor Rapped

LANSING—(AP)—A House committee today was studying a resolution "opposing" Governor Williams' proclamation of April 23 to 29 as World Government Week.

The governor treated the matter lightly, saying he had only asked the residents of the state to "consider" the matter and that Republican Secretary of State Fred M. Alger, Jr., had countersigned the resolution.

Introduced by Rep. Richard L. Thomson (R-Highland Park), the resolution accuses the governor of exceeding his authority by advocating the dissolution of the United States in a world federation.

In the Senate, Senator Charles S. Blondy (D-Detroit) made jokes over a letter from the Wayne County Republican Women's Federation which started the whole thing. The letter contained a federation resolution condemning the proclamation.

The proclamation said "on every hand there is a growing recognition that one way to abolish war and establish the basis for a durable peace is through federation of the nations of the world."

Funny Book Best Medium To Explain Brannan Farm Plan

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) said today "there could be no more appropriate medium than the comic cartoon for depicting the Truman administration's so-called farm program."

Talle said in a speech prepared for the House that he wanted to commend the Democratic national committee for "its realistic appraisal" of the Brannan plan.

He referred to a recent announcement that the comic book technique would be used to explain it to the public.

The Iowan termed this "a most intriguing development.'

JUSTICE WON'T PLAY

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—(AP)—Charlie Justice, all America halfback with University of North Carolina the past two seasons, said he today would not play professional football despite flattering offers.

U. S. Economist Denies Communist Leanings

WASHINGTON — (AP) — William W. Remington denied once again today that he ever was a Communist. Anyone who disputes that, he said, either doesn't know the facts, or is "engaged in a deliberate falsehood."

The 32-year-old commerce department economist made the statement before the House un-American Activities Committee as the group opened a new inquiry into his loyalty.

Remington was suspended briefly two years ago from his $9,870 a year job as the result of a Senate investigation. He was reinstated after the government's loyalty review board cleared him.

Four Die In Tokyo Sewer For Lost Ball

TOKYO — (AP) — Minoru Tanaga, 13, slipped down a manhole to recover a ball. He didn't come out.

Tanaka's father went down. He stayed.

So did a neighbor.

Finally a fireman with gas mask climbed down—but not back.

All four died of methane gas suffocation.

City Council Meets Tonight

Budget For 1950-51 To Be Presented

The regular meeting of the Escanaba city council will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the council chambers in the city hall.

The business scheduled for the meeting includes the following:

Presentation of engineer's drawings and cost estimates of water main extensions on 26th avenue, 20th street north, First avenue south between 23rd and 25th streets and on 25th street.

Final action on removal of substandard building in the 1200 block of North 18th street.

Report of city attorney regarding establishing new gas stations in commercial areas.

First reading of ordinance to close 14th avenue, which is at the north extension of the airport runway.

Presentation of 1950-51 budget and resolution setting date for public hearing.

First hearing of amendment to zoning ordinance prohibiting more gas stations on Ludington street.

Resolution releasing Lot 2, Block 5, Assessor's Plot No. 2 in the 1600 block of Lake Shore Drive to the Department of Conservation.

Big Global Aid Cut Predicted

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Encouraged by a new economy recruit, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today "there is a possibility" the Senate will whack half a billion dollars from the pending European aid bill.

Senator Ives (R-NY) told the Senate late yesterday that "for the first time" he will vote to cut a Marshall Plan authorization.

The New York Republican backed this up by offering an amendment to whittle $500,000,000 from the $3,100,000,000 asked to finance the third year of the European recovery program.

Previously Senators Taft and Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) had backed a 20 per cent cut of $600,000,000 while Senator Kem (R-Mo) proposed a full $1,000,000,000 slash.

The Senate has agreed to start voting on these various cutbacks and a long list of other amendments Friday.

Spartan Trackmen Face Penn State

EAST LANSING—(AP)—Michigan State's track team, soundly thumped by Southern California last weekend, will attempt a comeback against Penn State at a dual track meet here Saturday.

MSC Karl A. Schlasdeman said he expected the squad to be sharper than they have appeared any time during the outdoor season. Good weather has slowed the Spartan thin clads to get in some extensive workouts this week.

Penn State will bring some of the nation's best hurdlers, dash men and distance runners to the meet.

Among Penn State stars will be Jim Gehrdes, the IC4A indoor Penn relays high hurdles champion; Wilbert Lancaster, leading dash star, and Don and Bill Ashenfelter, outstanding distance runners.

Missing Port Huron Boy Now Believed Kidnaping Victim

PORT HURON, Mich.—(AP)—Officials voiced a growing belief today 30-month-old Brian Marshall, missing since Monday, was carried away in a car by an abductor.

The blond, blue-eyed boy disappeared mysteriously from the yard of the river-front home of his wealthy foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Marshall.

An intensive search of the St. Clair River waters and of fields and swamps in the area failed to solve the mystery.

Port Huron and state police said there was no direct evidence of kidnaping.

One phase of the search turned to Detroit. Several persons there told police they are convinced they saw the boy in company with a woman on an Oakland Line streetcar Tuesday evening.

Detective Edward Walling of the St. Clair police post went to Detroit today to aid in investigating the reports there. He had fingerprints of the missing child, together with snapshots and clothing samples that might help witnesses confirm an identification.

Detroit detectives had statements from two men who said they saw a woman Tuesday evening with a child they later recognized from newspaper photographs as Brian.

William Brooks, a chef, told Detroit police the woman with the boy stopped him at a street corner and asked how to get to a certain neighborhood. He advised her to take an Oakland Line streetcar.

Detectives, after checking several streetcar crews, located motorman Samuel Barrick, who said he recognized a picture as that of the Marshall boy. Barrick said he did not notice where the woman and boy got off.

Brooks and Barrick agreed on the woman's description, detectives said.

At first, it seemed plausible the boy had wandered into the river and drowned. A trained bloodhound, however, trailed his little footsteps in a direction away from the river.

Naval Composite Unit Inspected Here Wednesday

Comdr. E. A. Peavey, U.S.N.R., volunteer naval reserve program coordinator for the Ninth Naval district, inspected Volunteer Composite Unit No. 9-60 of Escanaba Wednesday night.

The Escanaba composite unit was organized in October, 1949, and Lt. Robert Haven of Escanaba is its commanding officer.

Following inspection, Commander Peavey met at the Junior High school with members of the unit to discuss programs.

Those attending the meeting were Harry S. Johnson of Rapid River, seaman recruit; Lloyd R. Oberg of Gladstone, seaman recruit; Milford Young of Gladstone, seaman apprentice; Richard W. Schrader, seaman apprentice; Donald C. Tardiff of Gladstone, seaman; Allen R. Sackett, EM3c; Albert Vietzke of Gladstone, seaman; R. G. Mulcahey, chief personnel officer; Lt. Russell P. Schroeder, Lt. Comdr. D. R. Shipman, Lt. (j.g.) John Arnold, Lt Byron H. Skellenger of Gladstone, Lt. (j.g.) V. G. Ivory of Gladstone, Lt. John Anthony, and Lt. Robert C. Haven.

95 in District

The composite unit has been meeting each Monday night at the reserve armory. It has conducted programs which included movies on mine sweeping, navigation, amphibious landing, Sea-Bee construction and other Naval activities.

Volunteer composite units are organized in communities where budget limitations preclude establishment of organized units. In August, 1949, there were 25 such units within the Ninth Naval district, but by May, 1950, a total of 95 composite units were listed, Commander Peavey stated.

The composite unit is comprised of men of all ranks and ratings who have an interest in Navy activities. To organize a composite unit, ten members on active status are necessary, drills must be held at regular periods and all programs must be approved by the coordinator.

Communists Won In Wisconsin

Helped To Defeat Bob LaFollette

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—There is one man here in Washington who has watched the development of McCarthyism with a special interest. He is Robert M. LaFollette jr., who was defeated by Senator McCarthy in the Republican primary just four years ago.

CHILDS

Completing his third full term in the Senate, LaFollette was in the midst of a strenuous and exacting effort to put across the Congressional Reorganization Act. Teamed up with Representative Mike Monroney in the House the senator from Wisconsin was concentrating all his energies on achieving a step forward in government efficiency.

Friends had warned him that he was in trouble in Wisconsin. McCarthy, using his judgeship as a convenient means of getting around the state, had been campaigning strenuously for many months.

Reds Hated LaFollette

But also there was thunder on the left. For a year or more the Communists and their fellow travelers in Wisconsin had been attacking and smearing LaFollette. They were in control at that point of certain unions in Milwaukee and other Wisconsin cities.

Their hatred of LaFollette had at least two strong motivations. For one thing he had dared to question the sincerity and the intentions of the Soviet Union in its relations with the United States and the West. That, remember, was when the influence of the wartime alliance was still strong and official policy was to do everything to "get along" with Russia in peacetime.

But a deeper reason was even more compelling. LaFollette stood for what Communism hates and fears most—a progressive and reasonable solution for social and economic ills. This has been illustrated over and over again both in Europe and America. It is the Social Democrats and the progressives on whom the Communists direct their most virulent attack.

From the beginning of the career of the younger LaFollette's father, "Fighting Bob," the LaFollettes had worked for progressive change. They had made Wisconsin a laboratory for pioneer experiments in the kind of social legislation generally accepted today.

But this course had won the LaFollettes the enmity of the extreme right, too. So, four years ago you had a fascinating example of the two extremes both working to destroy a valuable public servant.

Demos Aided McCarthy?

There have been published reports that the Democratic high command joined in this effort. The report, denied by Democratic headquarters, is that in the primary race $10,000 was secretly sent in by the Democrats to help McCarthy. This, if it was in fact done, was in the conviction that McCarthy would be a much easier target in the November election for defeat by the Democrats.

The Democratic candidate was Prof. Howard J. McMurray, who had served one term in Congress. McMurray at that point was saying the things about foreign policy that pleased the Communists and their satellites.

In the closing days of the campaign LaFollette came back to Wisconsin to try to recover lost ground. It was too late. He was defeated in the primary by about 5,900 votes.

That narrow margin may well have been supplied by the Communists who went into Wisconsin's open primary to do a hatchet job. It was generally felt that without the efforts of the extreme left over a long period LaFollette would not have been defeated.

May Run Again

While he has made no public statement, LaFollette has watched the McCarthy spectacle with a growing feeling of the harm done to the nation and particularly to Wisconsin. After the defeat of four years ago he had felt that he was probably through with politics. He has been detained by several large corporations as a consultant in Washington and he is on the board of directors of the United Fruit Corporation.

But today LaFollette is thinking about the possibility of running against McCarthy in 1952. He has reached no decision. The odds are perhaps against his return to active politics with all the sacrifices that this inevitably would mean.

Yet one can understand his feelings. The state so closely allied to the LaFollette name is now attached to a campaign of reckless charges that have done great harm both at home and abroad.

As for the Communists, they must surely feel satisfied with what they achieved in Wisconsin in 1946. Their goal is to weaken and undermine America's position abroad and the will and resolution of of resisting Communist aggression. They got more than their money's worth four years ago.

Hermansville Annual Senior Prom May 11

HERMANSVILLE — Hermansville seniors will hold their annual prom, the most important social affair of the school year, Thursday evening, May 11 at the Hermansville community club. Dancing with Ivan Kobasic and his orchestra playing will be from 10 to 1.

Fishermen Ask Concessions

Wisconsin Producers Seek Law Changes

MADISON, Wis. — Commercial fishermen have appealed to the legislature to give them concessions in commercial fishing regulations that they have been unable to get from the conservation commission which governs their business under a 14-year-old law.

The proposals were submitted to a legislative council sub-committee on conservation by the Wisconsin Fish Producers association, the membership of which is dominated by the commercial fishermen operating in Lake Michigan and Green bay waters. The interim legislative investigating committee is headed by Assemblyman Robert Travis of Platteville.

Smaller Green Bay Perch

Major changes in fishing rules sought by the fish producers are a seven and one-half inch size limit for perch in Green bay waters instead of the eight inch rule decreed by the commission, deeper chub nets for Lake Michigan, and smaller mesh sizes in the chub nets.

The fishermen have long asked for a 2⅜ inch mesh for taking chubs instead of the 2½ inch size insisted upon by the state agency, and they want a net that is about 11 feet deep instead of the dimension of about six feet that is now being allowed.

Most of the major propositions and many of the minor requests of the fishermen have repeatedly been asked of the commission, without avail.

Ask Economic Study

The fishermen also submitted to the committee a proposal supported at the most recent convention of the association which would restore the rule-making function for the commercial fishing business to the legislature. The legislature turned over that job to the commission in 1937, and the state officers have had many lively disputes with spokesmen for the industry since that time.

The fishermen also asked the legislature to authorize the establishment of a reliable research agency within the state government to study the economic and other problems of their business. They said the University of Wisconson could do such a job.

Ready For Freddie, Says Alger, Candidate For Governor's Job

LANSING—(AP)—Attorney General Stephen J. Roth, a Democrat, really is being awfully decent about what secretary of state Fred M. Alger, Jr., calls himself when he runs for the Republican nomination for governor.

Roth says it's O. K. for Alger to call himself either "Fred" or "Frederick." Alger asked for Roth's ruling.

Roth put his tongue in his cheek and wrote "I assume it is capable of proof that 'Fred M. Alger, Jr.,' and 'Frederick M. Alger, Jr.' are in fact one and the same person xxx."

Roth said it would be all right for Alger to call himself "Fred" on his nominating petitions and "Frederick" on the primary ballot, but that "the better practice is to enter the names alike on both."

Alger's campaign buttons say "We're Ready For Freddie."

How about it "Freddie," Mr. Roth?

Conflict Between Reds, Catholics Keen In Italy

Father Attilio Picini of Florence, Italy

By ROBERT BALL

FLORENCE, Italy—Probably it's in Italy that conflict between the Communist Party and the Catholic Church is keenest. In the other countries of the Western community, either the Communist influence is too small to be competitive or the edge of combat is dulled by the presence of a large middle-of-the-road group. In Italy, for practical purposes, one is either for the Church or for the Party, and no one on either side believes that in this case the lion and the lamb will ever be able to lie down to together.

Robert Ball

In order to learn what the Church is doing in this war of ideologies, I called on Father Attilio Picini, Dom Attilio as he is known in Florence. Young Father Picini teaches in the Catholic secondary school, and his evening work with Catholic Action puts him in the front line of the propaganada war.

Organize Crusade

He was quick with an answer about efforts to win over the Communists. "We have organized a regular crusade," he smiled. "In this Holy Year, every member of Catholic Action, (that's about 30,000 people here in Florence alone) has promised to seek out and talk to some Communist he knows, trying to get him to come to church or make a pilgrimage to Rome. We have had success, but as you know the Communists are strong and well-organized."

Catholics are not liable to excommunication for associating with Communists, Father Picini explained. The Edict of Excommunication is broad in phrasing but has been interpreted only to affect those who are actively working in support of the Communists.

The hottest fight is for the loyalty of the Italian youth, he continued. Here Catholic and Communist youth groups vie for members. The Catholic "Aspiranti," aged seven to 15 are matched by the Communist "API", while the group for ages 15 to 25, the "Gioventu," is set against the FGCI ("Federazione di Gioventu Communisto Italiano.)

"The Aspiranti level is the most dangerous," Father Picini contended. "That is the age in which young people become interested in sports and amusements. The Communists have wooed them with organized sports for which they supply the equipment, group excursions with expenses paid, and such. Now we have struck back with similar measures, including music clubs and free comic books containing religious stories." He smiled " I think one has to use methods suitable to the case. It's difficult to win lively young people with theological arguments alone."

No Violent Enmity

Father Picini denied that the ideological battles had resulted in violent enmity between the two sides. "There is one street here in Florence where nearly everyone is Communist," he said. "But when I go there on visits, it is very seldom that I hear any unpleasant comment."

"In that same street, by the way I knew a family in which the father was a Party member, while the 16 year old son, thanks to secret instruction from his mother, was a Catholic. One night the father learned that his son was in church, went to the church and dragged the boy home. Two days later, father and son came to church together and now the father is an enthusiastic member of Catholic Action. He had been proud of the boy all along, and the boy convinced him.

"Another case has ended temporarily in truce. For some weeks the son brought home the Catholic newspaper and the father, "L'Unita" (the Communist daily). This led to arguments. They settled by promising not to buy any newspapers at all, but we still hope to win."

Father Picini leaned back. "Let me see if I can help you by summarizing," he said. "Very few of the Communists here are ideologically convinced. Most are members of the Party or support it because they believe it is working harder than any other party to help workers and peasants." He frowned. "If the government could only solve the unemployment problem and carry out the land reform, our job would become much easier."

Customer Always Wrong, Elevator Strike Shows

By ROBERT RUARK

RUARK

New York's recent elevator-operator strike, which has a quarter million miserable apartment dwellers puffing up endless stairs, is a pretty fine example of the new American adage—that the customer is always wrong.

A union wants more dough. The apartment owners under the Realty Advisory Board don't want to pay it until, by their own naked admission in advertisements, they can up rents and pass the extra expense along to the customers. The union says, well, let's arbitrate, and the Advisory Board says no. So the union strikes. My apartment met demands, and protected its tenants from hardships, so I got no personal beef.

For several days the milk goes undelivered, and garbage piles high. A small black-market develops in delivered groceries, with the delivery boys charging so much per floor. All sorts of gags developed. One charming lady who lives in a penthouse was alleged to have had five latchkeys returned by cooled-off admirers.

Officers in Uniforms

In another building, where the tenants took over the job of running the elevators, one marine major showed up in full uniform to pilot the lift. He was topped, shortly, by a full colonel of the Air Forces, also in dress uniform, with medals. Possibly the richest volunteer operator was young Ed Luchenbach, the shipping magnate, who took his turn at the elevator helm with less affuent members of his apartment.

Public indignation hit its usual peak after a few days of discomfort for the cave dwellers, and the realty group finally submitted the case to a fact-finding board. The strikers went back to work, while the strike was in effect, still on, with the threat of another walkout by the operators hanging in the air.

Point is that the actual walkout was not necessary, since the same agreement could have been achieved and countless thousands of man-hours of discomfort and annoyance avoided. Actually what went on was a battle between the union and the realty board, which is an unabashed pressure group for the lifting of rent controls. The customer — the tenant — is caught in the middle, and neither landlord group nor union gives a hoot for his rights in the matter.

Necessary Service

In the city where the buildings are stright-up-and-down, elevator service is as necessary to the well-being of the tenant as a roof or water pipes, Small attention is paid to the troubles of the tenant if he can't pay his rent, but the fine print of his lease says the landlord is not responsible for strikes.

There has been great screaming about the evils inflicted on the landlords by the maintenance of rent controls, but I am inclined to weep only slightly. They have had a 15 per cent raise and the time-honored custom of the free redecoration every two years by the landlord has generally passed from the scene, as I know it.

In recent years, the tenant has been subjected to all sorts of dodges to beat the rent controls. Individual landlords have operated outside the restrictions by demanding outright bribes to permit occupancy. Gimmicks such as the sale of old furniture, "presents," in cash and even "key-purchase" have been used to fatten the pegged rates of apartment rents.

Public Ignored

It may be said, too, that the tenant has been just as rapacious as the landlord when it came to reaping a profit from successive tenants. More battered furniture has been sold to incoming tenants by outgoing tenants, at higher prices than ever before in the history of second-hand auction.

Nowhere do I remember the ordinary customer getting a break. When apartments were plentiful you were held to the letter of the lease and were not allowed to vacate before its expiration without first finding a satisfactory sub-lessor. In the time of shortage, lease-breakings were welcome and sub-lessors frowned on.

In the current rassle between unions and management, the rights of the dwellers are coolly ignored, and what should be a private fight is turned into a weapon against the tenant "until such time as the cost of pay increases can be passed on to the customer." Poor old customer, plump pigeon for everybody's rocks.

Michigan Navy Bean Swells With Pride

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Michigan's navy bean can swell up with pride now. It's been praised on the floor of the House of Representatives.

Michigan, said Rep. Louis Rabaut Monday, has a lot of things to brag about and among them are its beans. The Wolverine state grows 92 per cent of all navy beans produced in the United States, he declared.

The Groose Pointe Park, Mich., Democrat also read a note from Gov. G. Mennen Williams announcing that a sample package of beans was being sent to each Michigan member of Congress.

Rep. Clare Hoffman, a Michigan Republican, said he considered Williams' gift just an example of Democratic extravagance.

WHY BE FAT?

Medical Science shows the way to a slimmer, lovelier figure for you . . . the safe, sensible B-THIN way

Yes, medical science has at last come to the aid of you fat folks. No longer need you be burdened with unsightly, fun-destroying fat. No longer need you suffer the humiliation of being passed-up on gay doings because you're "Too Fat."

The B-Thin way is the scientific way of taking off fat. These condensed food tablets contain no harmful drugs. They supply your system with all the nutritional elements required for energetic health. They curb your appetite for fattening foods. They keep up your energy while you lose ugly fat.

After the very first day of taking B-Thin you will begin to see the difference. The hated fat begins to go. The beautiful figure of vibrant youth begins to reappear, and before the treatment is many days old, you are again able to wear smart, stylish clothes.

Miss Valadez AFTER following the pleasant B-Thin plan.

Read this NOTARIZED statement:

Tee-Jay Pharmacal,
Detroit, Michigan

Gentlemen:

When I first started taking B-Thin, I weighed 165 pounds. My figure was anything but alluring. For several years I had tried to reduce with dieting, exercising and other reducing plans. None of them seemed to help. I didn't have much faith when a friend told me to try B-Thin. But what a pleasant surprise!

In the very first week I lost six pounds and after following the B-Thin plan, I brought my weight down to 125 which is the right weight for me. My figure is trim, my clothes look stunning on me, and I am really enjoying life for the first time in years.

Helen Valadez

(This statement notarized, 1-23-50 by Lawrence L. Stewart, notary public of the County of Wayne, State of Michigan. Original is on file and will be shown on request.)

No Strenuous Exercising

Unlike many reducing methods, the B-THIN method calls for no strenuous exercising, no tortuous massaging, no weakening steam baths.

No Gnawing Hunger

The B-Thin plan permits you to eat the foods you enjoy. Each box contains the famous B-Thin menu, which includes many foods you've always considered "fattening."

Start losing ugly FAT today!

ASK YOUR FAMILY DOCTOR

Happiness awaits you. Why delay? Now is the time to start the B-Thin reducing plan. Before you eat your next meal get a box of B-Thin Condensed Food Tablets. Follow the directions carefully, and with no exercising, no massaging, no dieting, watch those hated pounds of excess weight disappear. Watch your pep and energy return. And watch how your friends and loved ones begin to compliment you on your slimmer, lovelier, more youthful-looking figure. So—don't delay. Start reducing today—the safe, sensible B-THIN way.

Ernest Koke Builds Better Dill Pickle

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —"All I can say about our business," Ernest S. Koke will tell you, "is that it stinks."

And that comes from the man who has made the dill pickle what it is today.

Koke's business is odors and tastes, and it may "stink" nosewise, but you can bet your bottom nostril that it doesn't stink profitwise. Chances are, any cosmetic item a lady buys today gets its odor from Koke's fabulous farm near Twin Falls, Ida. It's also probable that many of the delicious flavors you've tasted recently in various prepared foods came from the same place.

Koke's accomplishments show what happens when a high-priced chemical engineer decides there's more money in farming. The result is probably the first 100 per cent "chemurgic" farm in the U. S.

ERNEST KOKe: Flavor for pickles, oil for cosmetics.

Chemurgy generally means the use of chemistry to find new uses for farm products. Koke revealed the scope and nature of his farm for the first time at the 15th Annual Conference of the National Farm Chemurgic Council in Washington.

Production of oil of dill weed was his first big accomplishment in chemurgy Back in 1931, while an organic chemist in a steel plant, he somehow became interested in the way the big pickle companies were favoring their dills. He was surprised to find that they still did it by putting sprigs of the dill plant in the brine.

This resulted in a pickle that varied greatly in taste, depending on how dry, old or healthy the dill weed happened to be. The dill flavor also differed according to the soil the dill grew in. It was affected still further by a half dozen other factors of growth.

• • •

Koke grew dill weed under perfectly controlled conditions, extracted the pure dill oil from the plant and used that to provide a consistent flavor for the pickles. Now all the big companies use this method of flavoring their dills, and only throw in a sprig of actual dill weed for looks.

With this success under his belt, Koke decided to devote all his time to chemurgic farming. He greatly extended his father's acreage in Idaho, where he made his first dill experiments, and began widening his horizon.

Today Koke is one of the biggest producers of natural essential oils and aromatic chemicals in the country. A weedy plant called coriander, which he grows in great quantities, is the source of the oil that goes into many expensive perfumes and cosmetics.

He also raises plants which produce the anise and horehound flavor of candy, as well as caraway, parsley, sage, savory and garlic, and a product called wormwood which goes into liniment.

In the course of producing those products, he has turned up some highly valuable aids to general farming. For instance, he has developed a special spray mixture which kills weeds yet spares fern-type plants, such as dill and carrots. This method of weeding carrots is used all over the country.

It is Koke's contention that, through hundreds of small chemurgic projects around the country, the farm surplus problem which now plagues agriculture could be licked. Chemurgy, he says, could find a new use for the surplus food and put thousands of acres of land into producing industrial products instead of food.

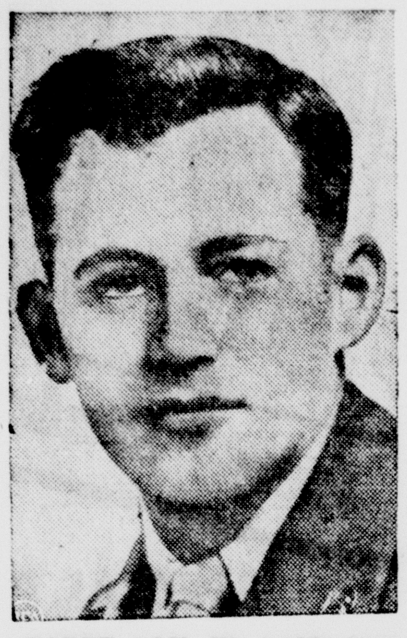
Case Of Missing Cadet Still Unsolved Mystery

BETTY TIMMONS: Her "steady" since high school was Richard.



CADET COX: His buddy overseas was mystery man "George."

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(NEA)—At 6:18 p. m. on Saturday, Jan. 14, Cadet Richard Cox nodded goodbye to his roommate, who was leaving for dinner.

And sometime after that, Cadet Cox walked out of the room, too—into thin air. He had already signed out on the barracks register, but he didn't sign in again for the 11 p. m. curfew.

Since that Saturday night, the Army's Criminal Investigation Division and the FBI have joined in a manhunt as great as the one for Judge Crater. And like Judge Crater's searchers, they have found not a single trace of the 22-year-old cadet.

His disappearance is peculiarly mysterious because of certain known facts: He was a good student, well-liked by his classmates, with no reason to desert the Army; he was a well-adjusted individual, happily in love with a childhood sweetheart; he had no known enemies; he had given no indication of an intention to run away; and there was George.

Dick Cox was born and brought up on a quiet, tree-shaded street in Mansfield, Ohio. His family still lives in the house where he was born. His home life was normal, his childhood was normal, he was normal.

In high school, he was a good athlete, playing on the football and baseball teams. He and his "steady" Betty Timmons, went to all the dances. They planned to get married someday.

In 1947, Dick Cox enlisted in the Army. For six months, he served in Schweinfurt and Coburg, Germany, with the occupation forces. He rose to the rank of sergeant, then took a competitive examination for admission to West Point, and passed.

He had made no enemies throughout his life. Even in Germany, where some of the enlisted men engaged in black marketing, he had remained aloof. The investigators found nothing in his Army career that might hint of impending revenge.

At West Point, he was a model cadet. He didn't strain against the rigid discipline, never violated the honor system, maintained scholastic marks which kept him in the top third of his class. Still no enemies, as far as could be learned, nor any reason for voluntary disappearance.

* * *

Then George entered the picture. The investigators aren't sure whether he has anything to do with the case or is just one of those coincidences that complicate matters.

But these are the facts: On Jan. 7, a man showed up at Cox's barracks. He asked if this was where Dick Cox lived. It was, said the cadet officer, but Dick was out.

"Tell him that George called," said the man. "George, his buddy in the Army overseas."

Cox returned later, and greeted a man—presumably George—like an old friend. They walked out together. The next day, a Sunday, the two were again seen together.

* * *

Dick mentioned the man to his roommates, Cadets Joseph Urschel and Deane Welch, telling them he was a buddy in Germany. On Saturday, Jan. 14, Dick got a call from George. Later, he said he was annoyed with George, and didn't want to waste any more time with him.

But at 5:45 he signed out, telling Welch he was going to meet George for dinner at Thayer Hall a hotel on the campus. No one who ate at Thayer that night remembers seeing Cox, with or without a companion.

No one has seen him since, although a gas station attendant in Mt. Gilead, Ohio, thought a customer accompanied by a pretty girl was the missing cadet. But further questioning proved the identification was too sketchy to go on.

* * *

The provost marshal of West Point, Lt. Col. Edwin Howell, found that the possessions Cox left behind in his room seemed evidence of foul play. There was $85 in money and his civilian clothing. Theorizing that Cox, had he been planning a vanishing act, would have taken his money and his civvies, Howell said that he felt Cox was dead.

But what could have been the motive? Authorities discredited robbery, again because the money in the room was mute evidence that he didn't have much money on his person. And there was nothing to indicate that romance or enmity entered the case.

On Feb. 25, the birthday of Cox's sister, investigators sat in the Cox living room in Mansfield. Never had he failed to call to wish her a happy birthday. They waited all day, all night for the phone to ring.

But it didn't. Its silence only emphasized the questions baffling his family and the authorities — where is Dick Cox? What has happened to him?

New Census Figures Come Out This Month

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The national 1950 population count is about 90 per cent complete and census officials figure about three weeks more will wind up the job.

Before the nose-counting started April 1, they estimated the total will be around 151,000,000 persons, up nearly 20,000,000 from 1940.

A tentative national figure will be put out the end of September. This month and next, tentative figures will be announced for counties and for cities over 10,000.

Isolated Oregon Town Counts Its Rainfall By Foot

By HAL BOYLE

VALSETZ, Ore.,—(AP)—This is one of the most isolated towns in America and a guy has to be six feet tall to live here or risk drowning.

Leaving out the moist month of April,, it rained 72 inches in the first 90 days of 1950. This is six feet of wet water.

"Of course, we measure rainfall here by the foot rather than the inch," said Bert Thomas, a pudgy sub-six-footer who has survived 30 adult and soaking years in this heartland of the big timber country.

Richest Woodland

Bert is a lumberman. He is general manager of the Valsetz Lumber Company, which owns some 30,000 acres of the 26 million acre belt of Pacific forest land which is the world's richest woodland.

This belt, still half virgin, half second growth, produces one third of the home grown lumber marketed in the United States.

Running a tough lumber camp of twelve hundred people brings a lot of problems. But the one that Bert likes to talk about, tongue in cheek, is how he solved the problem of the children beginning to outnumber trees.

The company built 185 homes here for married loggers," he said.

"One row of houses bordered a swamp. That swamp caused us all kinds of trouble. It was so close to the baseball diamond that everytime a guy made a long hit the ball would get lost in the swamp.

"Not only that but every spring the loggers who lived in that row of houses would come to us and ask for lumber to build an addition to their homes. Well, I didn't mind giving them the wood, but I couldn't figure out why the fellows living in this particular row of houses needed so much.

"When I asked them, they said, 'we just had another child. We gotta have more room, need a bigger house'."

Blame It On Frogs

So Thomas checked the situation and found this.

"The swamp they lived by was full of frogs, and the frogs kept everybody awake half the night.

"So we drained it and got rid of the frogs. And you know what; since then the requests for lumber dropped in half. They don't need to build so many additions to their houses.

"But, of course, the main thing is we don't lose any more baseballs in the swamp."

While Bert likes to joke about the birth control problems of the loggers, he can't very well joke about the lack of birth control in the rich Douglas fir forests his company is destroying to build homes across America.

There is a great "tree farm" program in progress here in the Pacific Northwest that will in time make the forests self-renewing.

"We believe in it completely, and we see that our cutover land is seeded with new trees," said Bert. "But, frankly, we got wise about 15 to 20 years too late."

Stripped Areas Replanted

By that he meant that in his company's 30,000 acres there will be a time lag period of 25 to 50 years when the old crop of trees is gone and the young crop is still too small to market. It takes a Douglas fir 80 to 100 years to ripen for harvest.

But the lumbermen out here are making a long term investment. They are seeding acreage now that can't pay off within the next half century.

"We still think America will be here and needing lumber," said Bert. And he and others are planting the bare stripped mountainsides with faith and dollars against a future payoff from the land they believe in.

for some time, and I would hate to think that he fooled me."

Wallace Exonerated

Budenz also stated flatly that "Henry Wallace is not a Communist," and that he knew "nothing about John Davies of the state department."

Under withering cross-examination by Senator Green of Rhode Island, Budenz tried to explain his shifting back and forth between Catholicism and Communism.

"The Catholic church has a great idea of redemption," he explained. "Its leaders—I am not comparing myself to them—but its leaders are people who reformed. St. Paul killed St. Stephen, the first martyr, and became a great Christian. St. Peter defied Christ. St. August led a life of attacking the church and repented and joined it."

"But in all those cases," snorted Green, "they had not been Christian first and then apostate and then Christian."

Budenz still insisted that he was a "different man than five years ago."

"Admitting all that, I would think it would be difficult to change from one type of mind to another," retorted the senator from Rhode Island.

But Budenz declared: "I think, myself, the most truthful people in the world are the ex-Communists."

This doesn't agree with Budenz' own record, however. In writing his biography for the 1949 Who's Who, four years after he was converted, Budenz stated that he married Margaret Rogers in August 1933. The truth is, he wasn't divorced from his first wife until 1938—though he began living with Margaret Rogers in 1933 and had three children by her before they were formally married in 1945.

(Additional classes will be added if interest warrants.)

RULES

1. The Contest is open to everybody, men, women and children. Contest opens with the legal fishing season and closes on September 15. Envelopes containing entries must bear a postmark not later than September 15, 1950, to be eligible.

2. All fish entered in the contest must be caught in public waters of Upper Michigan during the open season in the respective fish class.

3. Contest is limited to fish taken with hook and line. Any legal lure may be used. Lake trout must be caught on a rod or line freely held in the hand and not attached to a boat.

4. All information asked for on the entry blank should be supplied. Failure to give length and girth may disqualify entries. Fish must be weighed on tested scales and measured with a steel tape measure, the length taken from the end of the lower jaw with the mouth closed to the tip of the tail, and the greatest girth of the fish taken. Weight may be given dressed or in the round or both.

5. In the wall-eyed pike and black bass classes a photograph is desirable to be sure of identity of the species.

6. In the event of two or more fish weighing and measuring exactly the same, identical trophies will be awarded. Greatest measurements will decide the winner when weights are approximately equal.

7. Accompany your entry with a photograph of yourself or the fish or both together with a brief story of how where and when the fish was caught. A photograph is not essential to win an award but it is desirable.

8. The entry blank printed above, or an exact copy must be used. It must be signed by the person catching the fish and by two witnesses who examined the fish and verified its weight and measurements. The contestant agrees, if requested to do so by the judges, to furnish an affidavit attesting to the truth of all statements made in the entry.

9. Contestants may make as many entries in all classes as they wish.

PRIZE AWARDS

In each of the classes the angler entering the fish which is adjudged to be the largest in its class will receive a trophy in recognition of his or her accomplishment.

Additional blanks may be had free of charge by addressing Outdoors Editor, Escanaba Daily Press, Escanaba, Michigan.

W. H. Hildebrand is expected to return tonight or tomorrow morning from Peoria, Ill., where he attended Mead corporation conferences.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Taggert, 409 South 12th street, are leaving this weekend for Kingsport, Tenn., to spend a week there looking at houses and visiting friends. The Taggerts' two sons will accompany them to Chillicothe, Ohio, and visit there with his parents. For the past two months, Mr. Taggert, a member of the Escanaba Paper company staff, has been working in Escanaba and Kingsport. He expects to be transferred to Kingsport within the next two months.

Mrs. Charles Gessner left yesterday on the airliner for Detroit en route to Ann Arbor where she will attend the May Festival at the University of Michigan.

Social Situations

You have several married couples to dinner in your home.

WRONG WAY: At the dinner table seat husbands next to wives.

RIGHT WAY: Arrange your seating plan so that husbands and wives do not sit together.

If your children eat at their own small table let them make placemats for themselves sometimes. A scalloped sheet of paper and plenty of bright-colored cryons will do the trick.

Cartwright-Royer

Miss June Ethel Cartwright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Cartwright of Soo Hill, became the bride of Joseph Francis Royer, son of Mrs. Frank Royer of Gladstone, in a ceremony at 10 a. m. last Saturday in All Saints rectory at Gladstone. The Rev. Fr. Matt LaViolette officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cartwright served as best man and matron of honor for the couple.

The bride wore a small-check, blue and white suit with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Cartwright wore a teal blue dress with pink and brown accessories.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at Bells Restaurant, and a wedding dinner at the Eagles hall. A reception for 150 was held at the Eagles hall in the afternoon.

The couple is now at home at 115 Fourth street in Gladstone.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba senior high school and the bridegroom, who is employed at the Buckeye mill in Gladstone, is a graduate of Gladstone high school.

Out-of-town persons at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Edward Landermen of Marinette and Mrs. Albert Hanson of Menominee.

Today's Recipes

Here are the first of a group of excellent recipes for preparing smelt taken from the attractive pamphlet issued by the Michigan State college atribultural experiment station in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Conservation:

Pan-Fried Smelt

Clean and wash fish. Season with salt and pepper. Roll fish in cornmeal, dip in egg diluted with milk or water, roll in cornmeal again. Heat two tablespoons fat in heavy skillet. Using a low flame brown fish on one side, then on the other.

Variations: Soak fish in lemon juice for 10-15 minutes before frying to bring out the delicate flavor; other suggestions for crumbing, flour, bread crumbs, cracker crumbs, crushed cornflakes.

Smelt with Onion Creamy Gravy

3 medium sized onions
2 T fat
¼ t sale-pepper
10-12 smelt
1 cup cream or milk

Fry onions in fat and when brown push to one side of skillet. Fry the seasoned fish slowly until brown on both sides. Remove fish to hot platter. Add cream or milk to onions and simmer for 5-10 minutes. Pour over fish and serve.

To Seek Funds For Farmer Day

Program For Event To Be Arranged

At a meeting of committee chairman Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce office it was decided that an immediate canvass should be made by the finance committee in order that a budget could be drawn for the second annual Rural Neighbors Day to be held here late in July.

Gordon Kelley heads the finance group and assisting him are Dr. A. A. Hollick, John Mathy, Paul VerHamme, Eugene Noblet, Dr. Charles Kee, Jake Jacobsen, Seymour Lewis, Ross Davis, Edward Trombley, John Mallongree, Mrs. John Semer, Al Gillis, James T. Jones, E. H. Parkhurst, Ed Brunelle, Joe Germaine, E. A. D'Amour, Charles Burton, Mrs. Wilfred LaFave, Chet Neurohr, Hilding Norstrom, Mrs. J. R. VanArnam, Clyde Cole, Dr. James Deblin, Russell Hetrick and Walter VanDeWeghe.

When the campaign for funds is pretty well along, workers will be better able to plan the program knowning how much money they have to work with.

Instead of having large prizes as was the case last summer, it is proposed to have a larger number of smaller and less valuable awards.

City Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Sword visited on Tuesday with relatives in Faithorn, Mich.

Dr. Charles Kee, city, and his brother Robert of Chicago, are vacationing in Florida.

To Women With
Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Brother Of Local Woman Visits Here

When Andres VanLandschoot arrived here from Knocke, Belguim, last week to visit his sister, Mrs. Harry Louis, it was the first time the two had seen each other since they parted in Belgium 51 years ago.

Andres was but ten years old when his sister left for this country.

Needless to say, the reunion was joyful. Also happy to see his brother was Phillip VanLandschoot, Munising, formerly of Gladstone.

Then Mr. and Mrs. Louis, Andres and Phil went to Superior to visit another brother, Joseph VanLandschoot, a trip from which they have just returned.

Former Resident Dies At Home In Milwaukee

Mrs. Nellie Rice, a native of Manistique and for many years a resident of this community, died Wednesday at her home in Milwaukee, Wis. She had been in poor health for more than a year.

Mrs. Rice, who was about 78 years old, was born in Doyle township in the Woods district. Surviving her are a daughter, Mrs. Barney Nelson, and a brother, Judge Ralph Merwin, both of Manistique. She was also a sister of the late Mrs. Ed Jewell of this city.

Funeral services will be held in Milwaukee.

Home Economics Groups Will Hold Spring Program

The Schoolcraft County Home Economics Extension clubs will hold their Annual Spring Achievement Program, Thursday, at the Birthday Grange hall, 6:30 p. m.

Plans for the program were made at the spring meeting of the Schoolcraft County Home Economics Executive Committee. Featured on the program will be a discussion on adolescent problems by Mrs. Lennah K. Backus, Extension Specialist in Parent Education and Child Development from Michigan State College. Other numbers on the program include a Pot Luck Supper, a display of work done during the year by the clubs, music, group singing and recreation.

Home Economics clubs from Manistique, Thompson, Hiawatha, Manistique Township, Woods District, Germfask, Seney, and Grand Marais, plan to attend the program.

Officers of the county Home Economics Committee are: Chairman, Mrs. Frank Arrowood, Route 1, Manistique; Vice Chairman, Mrs. Stanley Shust, Manistique; and secertary-treasurer, Mrs. Clifford Christensen, Route 2, Manistique.

Sheahan To Speak At Housewarming Of Mueller School

William J. Sheahan, county prosecutor, will deliver the principal address of the evening at open house ceremonies at Mueller Township Consolidated Schools Saturday evening.

Other numbers, in keeping with the occasion, are on the program to which Mueller township residents invited the public to come and to view the $75,000 structure that has recently replaced the two structures known as "The Green School."

Activities will consist of inspection of the building, the program and lunch, with the program proper starting at 8:30. Harry Anderson, president of the Mueller township board of education will preside.

Gulliver Community Planning Club Meets

The Gulliver Community Planing club held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening at the Whitedale school.

During the business session reports were given by the committees. It was reported that a profit of $52.09 was made on the recent dance given for the benefit of the cancer drive.

A special meeting will be held on May 16 by a committee which will work on the by-laws of the club.

After entertainment, lunch was served by the lunch committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Beal and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson.

The next meeting will be held on June 6 at the Whitedale school.

76th Birthday

A delightful party was held in honor of Mrs. Frank Cook on Monday evening at their home on Schoolcraft avenue, the occasion being her 76th birthday anniversary. A buffet supper was served to the immediate family and friends. The table was beautifully decorated in the May Day motif. Mrs. Cook, who has been seriously ill most of the winter, was able to be active and enjoy the many lovely gifts which were presented to her.

Manistique High School Wins More Honors In District Forensic Meet

Honors in forensic activity again have come to Manistique high school.

In a regional speech contest held here Wednesday afternoon and evening in which entries from Iron Mountain, Kingsford, menominee, Stephenson, Felch, Newberry, Sault Ste. Marie, Cedarville and Manistique participated, Manistique won three firsts.

Kingsford carried off two honors, winning first place in the extemporaneous division and second place in the dramatic reading event. Second places were also won by Felch and Menominee (which won two).

Manistique was not represented in the extemporaneous division. Dan Van Eyck, who was slated to uphold that part of the program for Manistique, was ill and unable to take part.

In the declamations division, Mary Ann Mincoff, representing Manistique, won first honors. She told with impressive emphasis, the fundamentals in Christianity's fight against Communism. "Her selection was entitled "I'm Going Home to Be Crucified." Marjean Helander, of Felch, who rated very close to Mary Ann, declaimed a selection entitled "Pulse of a Nation."

"Extemporaneous Speaking

Robert Parant won first in extemporaneous speaking, dealing very convincingly with the subject, "The Failure of the United Nations." Second place went to William Larson, who very cleverly discussed "President Truman" —his good points and not a few of his shortcomings.

In the oratory division, in which the contestants spoke on subjects they had composed beforehand and had memorized, William Corson, of Manistique, won first place dealing with the subject, "Thou Shalt Not Kill." The subject to do with motor fatalities and his discourse was a strong plea for action to curb this menace. Second place went to Arlene Waltonen whose talk on the subject "Rights and Privileges of An American Citizen" was a resume of the historical events that led to the adoption of our national constitution and a plea for a more wider participation in the affairs of our government.

Dramatic Reading

Joan Sheahan, of Manistique, won first place in the dramatic reading division with her interpretation of a selection entitled "The Valiant." Second place went to Richard Froeling, of Kingsford, with his enactment of "The Button." This was an unusually close contest.

Judges in the contest were Miss Martha Beaman, Dr. Albert Burrows and Prof. Forest Robert, all members of the faculty of Northern Michigan State Teachers College, Marquette. Marvin Frederickson, director of the Manistique speech department, presided at the sessions and presented the trophies.

Club Women View Shawls

Shoulder Coverings Discussion Theme

The annual Women's club luncheon which culminates the activities of the season was held this year at Blaney Park on Tuesday. The attractive table settings carried out a spring theme with sugar plum trees for centerpieces and individual favors.

A brief talk was given by Mrs. S. P. Furlong of Newberry, who attended the 55th annual convention of the American Federation of Women's clubs, held at Detroit, Michigan. Special mention was made of the eleven awards received by the Upper Peninsula District of Women's Clubs.

Reports of the American home and garden, civic affairs, welfare, program, and hostess committees were submitted by Mrs. Howard Graff, Mrs. Elmer Lundstrom, Mrs. J. J. Herbert, Mrs. Rodger Smith, and Mrs. Barney Johnson, respectively. Executive reports were submitted by corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. E. Moore, and President, Mrs. Carl F. Anderson.

"The Parade of the Shawls", the unusual feature program of the afternoon, was presented at the Play House of Blaney Park. Beautiful shawls formed the props and costumes of the acts which portrayed the subject of music played at the piano by Mrs. A. F. Hall. Mrs. Elwood Taylor acted as narrator. Mrs. William L. Norton supervised the pageant which included the scenes of "Ruth", "Lady of Shallott", "Gypsy Love Song", "Madame Butterfly", "Spanish Shawls," "Song of India", "The Minuet", "The Pioneer", "The Old Fashioned Mother", "The Modern Mother", and the finale, "The Old Fashioned Walk."

Shirley Rozich Pleases Many At Concert Here

Many people, who attended the concert presented at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening by Miss Shirley Rozich, are convinced that the young high school senior has a beautiful voice and that she should be encouraged to pursue a musical career.

Miss Shirley, whose program was sponsored by the local paper mill union, Local 44, is gifted with a soprano voice of fine quality and has the added gift of clear enunciation and interpretive expression that made her singing delightful.

Her program of nine songs varied from the semi-classical "Kashmiri Song" to the popular "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes." Particularly favored by the audience were her singing of "Dear Little Boy of Mine" and "Perfect Day." Miss Evelyn Anderson, accompanied her at the piano.

Also appearing on the program were the Babladelis brothers, Iggy and Nicky, Iggy playing the violin and Nicky accompanying him at the piano. They favored the audience with four skillfully executed numbers.

Miss Shirley is a member of this years senior class and is among the school's list of honor students. She has sung with the school's glee clubs during the four years she has attended school, but this is the first year she has appeared in public as a soloist. Members of the paper mill local, who sponsored her concert, are in hopes that she may win a scholarship that will enable her to continue her music career.

Lincoln PTA Will Install Newly Elected Officers

The Lincoln Parent-Teachers association will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the Lincoln gym at which time installation of officers will be held.

The officers, elected at the previous meeting, are: Mrs. Leroy Wilson, president; Mrs. William Morden, vice president and Mrs. Raoul Bertrand, treasurer.

Following the business session, the high school girls ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Roger Eisentrout, will present several numbers.

Mothers of the sixth grade room will be hostesses.

Eskymos To Open Season Against Marquette Today

Tennis Meet Called Off

Baseball Game Set For 4 O'clock

Weather permitting, the Escanaba high school baseball team will open its season this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the city diamond against Graveraet high school of Marquette.

A tennis meet scheduled for today between the two schools was cancelled, however.

Coach Jim Rouman said cold weather had hampered practice sessions and that he probably would try out combinations in an effort to find his best.

He said veteran Southpaw Bob Paterick or Sophomore Jack Chriske probably would start on the mound with Max Whitney and Nick Prokos in reserve.

Husky Jim Nyquist, converted first sacker, heads a threeman catching staff of himself, Eugene Hulette and Gary Carlson.

At first, Buddy Weber gets the nod over Ken Gunderman and Allan Slye and at second Warren Johnston draws the assignment over Roland McMillie and Paul Gunderman.

Third will be held by Dick Johnson with Jim Valentine in reserve and Tom Schwalbach gets the call at shortstop over John Cousineau.

The starting outfield comprises Duane Brown, Paul Baldwin and Charles Olson. In reserve are Dick Whitney, Howard Larson, Nicolin Ballback, Len VanDrese, Fred McFadden, Carl Frans and Wayne Lindstrom.

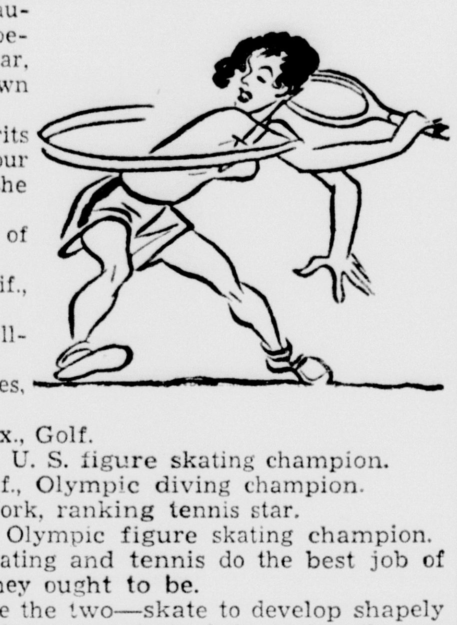
Not In It With Glamour Girls, Says Expert

NEW YORK—(AP)—Harry Conover, who deals in figures — the kind that walk around on high heels—named eight women today on his "all-glamour" team of sports, and Gorgeous Gussy isn't on it.



"My choice as the No. 1 beauty in athletics would be a tie between Nancy Chaffee, tennis star, and Phyllis Riggs, a little-known roller skater," he said.

"Gussy Moran has her merits but I think much of her glamour is due to clever publicity. She doesn't make my varsity"

Here's Conover's varsity of pulchritude:

Nancy Chaffee, Ventura, Calif., tennis.

Phyllis Riggs, New York, roller skating.

Brenda Helser, Los Angeles, Olympic swimmer.

Alice Bauer, Midland, Tex., Golf.

Vicki Draves, Pasadena, Calif., Olympic diving champion.

Sarah Palfrey Cooke, New York, ranking tennis star.

Barbara Ann Scott, Canada, Olympic figure skating champion.

The beauty expert thinks skating and tennis do the best job of putting feminine curves where they ought to be.

"In fact, if one could combine the two—skate to develop shapely legs and play tennis to improve the upper part of the body—the result would be an almost perfect figure.

"Did you ever see an ice skater or roller skater who didn't have trim, beautiful stems? I never did. Take Sonja Henie, Yvonne Sherman, Barbara Ann Scott, for example."

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

Foul language is not a mark of manliness.

Some students apparently are under the mistaken impression that it is.

At a practice field one day, we heard the most disgusting, filthy talk among several young athletes (the coaches were not around) that we have ever heard anywhere. And we have been in some "rough dives" in our newspaper assignments.

Boys, if you want to be a real man, act like one. You don't have to exhibit your knowledge of gutter jargon. Leave that to the bums, the hopheads, the touts, the ill-bred.

There are enough words in the English language to express yourself forcefully without having to resort to such rot.

* * * * *

These boys—apparently good, clean boys otherwise—perhaps think they'll be called "sissy" if they don't exhibit their lewd language.

And there is nothing a growing boy hates worse than being called a "sissy."

But an interesting story comes to mind.

A speaker at a meeting of prominent civic leaders in New York started to tell a "dirty" joke.

All of a sudden, he stopped short and asked: "Are there any ladies in the audience?"

"No," came a voice, "but there are gentlemen present."

The voice was that of the late President William Howard Taft.

* * * * *

Along with foul language go drinking and smoking.

We'll admit it is hard for youngsters not to drink and smoke—especially when so many of their fathers and mothers drink and smoke in front of them.

It isn't our idea that young people should be softies or panty-waists.

But, put it down in your book, boys, there are a lot more worthwhile things in life than drinking, smoking and swearing.

You may think you are "big shots" by doing those things so others, especially the girls, can see you .

But, remember, it takes a lot more character to refuse to indulge than it does to blindly follow some ninny-brained leader.

Have the courage of your convictions and be a man. . . not a dope.

Oma And Foe Disqualified

CINCINNATI— (AP) —The Cincinnati boxing and wrestling commission arranged for a hurry-up hearing today over the disqualification last night of both participants in a heavyweight boxing match—Lee Oma of Detroit and Bill Weinberg of New York.

Both fighters were ordered to appear before the commission. Their purses have been held up pending outcome of the har

With th 2,827 fans booing lustily all the way, referee Earl Butler let the fight go well into the seventh round and then st it, disqualifying both battlers for repeated foul tactics.

Butler asserted 'both men committed almost every kind of a foul" and mentioned particulary butting by Weinberg and heeling by Oma.

The disqualification figured to be a blow to Oma's hopes of getting a match soon with Ezzard Charles for the NBA world's heavyweight championship. Oma had won his last 13 fights in a row and is ranked No. 3 among the heavies by the NBA.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Cincinnati—Lee Oma, 194, Detroit, and Bill Weinberg, 212½, New York, both disqualified in seventh round. Pat Iacobucci, 127, Cincinnati, outpointed Art Llanos, 122, New York, 10.

Toledo—Charlie Cotton, 148, Toledo, outpointed Gene Burton, 148, New York 10.

SOFTBALL PRACTICE

The Escanaba Merchants softball team will practice Saturday at 2:30 at Ludington park.

LaPrade Gets Puck Trophy

MONTREAL—(AP) —Edgar LaPrade, New York Rangers' center, was an almost unanimous choice today for the Lady Byng trophy, awarded for the best sportsmanship in the past National hockey league season.

Red Kelly, defenseman of the champion Detroit Red Wings, was second. Paul Ronty, Boston Bruins center, was third.

LaPrade receives a $1,000 award.

Arrows And Jets Win Home Openers

(By The Associated Press)

The Flint Arrows and the Grand Rapids Jets won their opening home games in the central baseball league last night. The Michigan clubs delighted fans totaling 7,782 by whipping out-of-state rivals.

Flint tightened its first place position by defeating Charleston, W. Va., 5-2 before

Grand Rapids went into second place with a 6-2 victory over Dayton, Ohio, before 3,240 fans.

Muskegon and Saginaw had open dates.

Bark River Holds Practice Session

BARK RIVER—The Bark River baseball team will practice tonight and Sunday in preparation for the May 14 benefit game with Perronville.

Leo Knauf, manager, asks all players to be out.

Spartan Sophs Lead Defense

EAST LANSING—(AP)— Sophomores are taking over the linebacking chores in spring drills for the Michigan State college football team.

Coach Biggie Munn was forced to experiment with new talent after injuries and graduation took two of his regulars. Ralph Wenger of Saginaw, who worked on the defense last season, graduates in June. Captain Leroy Crane of Mt. Pleasant, another standout, has been out of the spring drills because of an injury.

Ed Timmerman, a former all-Grand Rapids University has looked like the best bet in the early drills. Timmerman also is still a fullback candidate but has shown so much stuff on the defense Munn may be tempted to keep him there.

Another likely prospect is Dick Tamburo, a center from New Kensington, Pa., and brother of Sam Tamburo, all-American end at Penn State a few years ago.

Others still in the running for defense duty are Doug Weaver, Goshen, Ind., Dick Abraham, Lansing, and Bill Hughes, Lewiston, Pa.

Bears Practice Again Tonight

About 20 candidates for the Escanaba Bears baseball team reported for practice at the athletic field last night and another practice has been called for tonight at 6:30.

Co-manager Johnny Schwalbach said he was pleased with the turn-out considering the short notice. He expects an even larger turnout tonight.

Last night's session was confined pretty much to limbering up muscles with the players playing catch and indulging in "pepper" games.

DETROIT—(AP)—Central Michigan college's second baseman, Ron Cooper, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg in attempting to complete a double play in the first inning of a baseball game with the University of Detroit yesterday. Detroit won 7-1.

When Cooper pivoted at second base, his spikes apparently caught in the bag as the base runner slid into him. The game was held up 40 minutes until Cooper could be moved in an ambulance to Mt. Carmel hospital.

Lloyd Brazil, U. of D. coach, described the injury as "the worst break I've seen from a baseball injury in 30 years."

Cooper will be confined to the hospital several weeks.

A six-run outburst in the fifth inning gave Detroit the victory.

Win Easier, Rolfe Pleads

Hair-Raising Tilts Worry Tiger Chief

Philadelphia— (AP) —Red Rolfe has one immediate wish to make his life easier as manager of the Detroit Tigers.

"I wish the boys would go about winning a few games in an easier manner. Every game so far has been a struggle for us."

Rolfe voiced the hope after last night's game with the Philadelphia Athletics was rained out. It was the third straight day of idleness for the Bengals.

Weather permitting, Detroit takes on the Athletics this afternoon. And the A's are in no mood to give the Tigers an easy time.

They're still smarting from a verbal spanking given them yesterday by Connie Mack, who didn't like the idea of seeing his club in the American league cellar. What he told the team was not disclosed, but it was well calculated to put the Athletics in a fighting mood.

Rolfe says first baseman Dick Kryhoski and pitcher Hal Newhouser hold the key to Detroit pennant hopes.

"If the kid (Kryhoski is 25) comes through we'll be tough," Rolfe declared. "He hasn't been hitting yet but I believe Dick is a developing ball player. He's strong, willing, and when he gets hold of the ball it goes for a long ride.

"If Kryhoski doesn't come through, I don't think we can win the pennant."

Rolfe reported Newhouser should be able to take his regular turn on the pitching mound within a week or 10 days. He said Newhouser pitched batting practice Sunday and showed no signs of the shoulder ailment that has idled him all spring.

"Newhouser will have to come back strong," Rolfe said. "You can't lose hurlers the caliber of Hal and still win pennants. It just isn't being done."

Local Women Bowlers Top Doubles List

MUNISING — With only two weekends of bowling left, an Escanaba doubles team — Helen Lewis and Edna Reynolds—still are in top spot in the doubles division of the Upper Peninsula women's bowling tournament being held at the Bay Shore Recreation alleys.

Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Reynolds teamed up to spill 1,068 pins, four more than second place H. Pezzetti-S. Benson of Wakefield and 22 more than M. Sampson-R. Johnson of Gladstone. In fourth place are D. Swanson and D. Hamilla of Ishpeming with 1,040 and in fifth are R. Tillner and V. Gerno of Ironwood, a pin behind.

E. Pelletier of Houghton tops the singles with 565. Others are: E. Dagenais, Marquette, 551; H. Felix, Ironwood, 548; J. Nakardo, Wakefield, 547; E. Tablo, Calumet, 546, and F. Savoy, L'Anse, 545.

High score to date in a single game was 224 by J. Busch of Manistique. In the all events, A. Birkhotz of Marquette, with a handicap, leads with 1,577 and E. Kiilunen of Laurium, without handicap, leads with 1,520.

Bay Shore Recreation alleys are operated by Cliford P. Liberty, former Gladstone high school and Michigan State colege star athlete.

U. P. Central Loop To Open On May 21

SENEY—The 10-team Central baseball league will open its season, Sunday, May 21.

Teams entered are Germfask, Grand Marais, Seney, Blaney, McMillan, Curtis, two from Newberry, Gulliver and Shingleton.

Will Your Host Be Derby Sizzler?

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)— Kentucky Derby masterminds are unanimous today in the thought that Your Host will sizzle out of the starting gate in the $100,000 golden gallop Saturday and say:

"Come and catch me—if you can."

The speedy California express still is favorite for this 76th running of America's most colorful turf event, which will see 13 or more three-year-old stars tackle the tough mile and one-quarter distance for the first time.

Four big questions are up for consideration, and all won't be answered until shortly after the field slams out of the barrier at Churchill Downs the day after tomorrow at 4:30 p. m.

1. Will the weatherman bring more rain and an off track, or will it be fast?

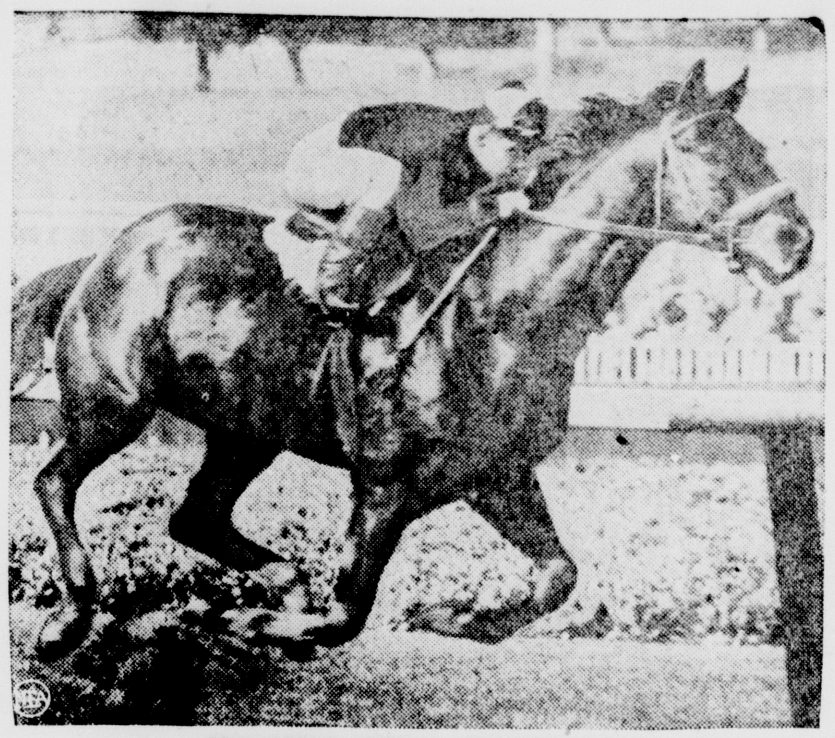
2. What horse is going out and attempt to run with Your Host's blazing speed, and try to keep him from stealing the race?

3. Can the son of Alibhai-Boudoir II carry his speed all the way?

4. If not, who is the one most likely to come along and pick up all the blue chips?

As for the weather, the weatherman said some showers are possible Saturday.

Several trainers said "let 'er rain," while others were praying for clear skies and a fast track.



Your Host, Johnny Longden up.

Harry Daniels, genial trainer of Bill Goetz's California Flyer, would prefer the later. Your Host never has had to race in the mud. The stable isn't intrigued with the thought of having to find out Saturday whether or not the colt can click in the stuff.

Some observers think Middleground, one half of the King ranch entry, might go out and run with the pace-setter. Even Max Hirsch, King ranch trainer, conceded that his colt could do it, but he didn't mean he was going to try it by any means. Hirsch will have on the mark, "a big, tough horse stronger than Middleground" to try for a second derby victory for Texas and the vast King ranch.

"Anybody who runs with him is gone," Max said of Your Host. "He might not last the route, but you won't either.'

The answer to question No. 4 will find some varied opinions. The general consensus is that Hill Prince, Wood memorial winner, could come late and wrap up the big prize for Virginia.

Chris Chenery's colt won't be anywhere at the start, but in the past when everybody had just about given him up for lost, the strapping son of Princequillo-Hildene started passing horses like they were standing still.

'I think Hill Prince is the horse to beat," said Daniel. "And Eddie Arcaro riding him won't hurt. He can ride a mule.

"But then, I don't have any amateur on my horse either," Daniels added, patting Johnny Longden on the head.

Other candidates for the big race include: Tom Gray's Oil Capitol; Clifford Mooers' Hawley; Calumet Farm's Theory; William Veeneman's Black George; C. V. Dooly; Brookmeade Stable's Sunglow and Greek Ship, Hal Prince Headley's Lotowhite, Walter Fugate's Hallieboy, Willorene farm's Trumpet King, Abercromie and Smith's Stranded, and William Peavey's Wisconsin Boy.

Balk Business Getting Silly--Raschi Gets Four

(By The Associated Press)

Balk. Balk. Balk. Balk. How silly can you get? Pitcher Vic Raschi of the New York Yankees, Umpire Bill Summers and the American league hold a new major league record that is better forgotten.

Raschi, guilty of only one previous balk in his big league career, was nailed four times by Summers yesterday at Yankee stadium.

As it turned out, Raschi survived balks, walks and 10 hits for a 4-3 victory over Bob Kuzava of the White Sox. Phil Rizzuto's double in the fifth accounted for two big runs.

Those Boston Red Sox, breathing fire at their Fenway park home, ripped off their sixth straight win, a 7-2 romp over Cleveland. The Sox routed Bobby Feller who had copped his first two starts.

Detroit, rained out at Philadelphia for the second straight time, still clings to the league lead by 31 percentage points. The Yanks and Red Sox are right behind.

Gil Coan hit a home run with the bases filled and two out in the seventh inning to give Washington a 4-3 comeback edge over the St. Louis Browns.

Too bad about those poor old St. Louis Cardinals. Patched with chewing gum and bound together with bailing wire, the aging Redbirds took a series from Brooklyn. Just when the Dodgers threatened to run away with the National League, too.

The Cards did it the hard way yesterday, winning in 13 innings, 6-5, with two in the last of the 13th. Jim Russell apparently won the game for Brooklyn with a homer in the first of the 13th. But Joe Garagiola's two-run single with the bases full made reliefer Willie Ramsdell knuckle down.

Leo Durocher got the thumb from Umpire Larry Goetz but the New York Giants won anyhow, 5-2, over Cincinnati. It was the Giants' second victory of the year.

Johnny Sain barely survived a three-run Pittsburgh first inning. Then he settled down to show the boys how it is done.

Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones, off to a sensational start, hit two homers for the Phillies to help in a 5-2 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

IN MEMORIAM

A tribute of love to the memory of our beloved husband and father, William Couillard, who passed away three years ago today, May 4, 1947.

There are some who miss you sadly
And find the time long since you went,
While we think of you daily and hourly
And try to be brave and content.
But we have shed many tears in silence
And breathed many sighs of regret;
For you were ours, we'll always remember.

Sadly missed by his wife and children,

MRS. WILLIAM COUILLARD AND FAMILY.

Missouri Officers Get Punishment For Grounding Battleship

NORFOLK, Va.— (AP) —Three key officers on the battleship Missouri have been punished by reduction in numbers for the grounding of the ship in Chesapeake Bay January 17, the Navy announced.

This punishment lowers the officers in their respective grades on the Navy's promotion list and retards their advancement to the next higher rank.

Capt. William D. Brown, 47, of Frostproof, Fla., the mighty Mo's former commanding officer, was reduced 250 numbers. Brown had shouldered sole responsibility for the grounding.

Cmdr. John R. Millett, 38, of Waterloo, Iowa, the ship's former operations officer, was reduced 100 numbers.

Lt.-Cmdr. Frank G. Morris, Jr., 34, of New York, former navigator was reduced 350 numbers.

'South Pacific' Gets 1950 Pulitzer Prize

NEW YORK—(AP)—"South Pacific," the smash hit Broadway musical, won the 1950 Pulitzer prize as the best original American play of the past year.

The drama award was one of 13 similar honors handed down by the prize committee for achievement in newspaper work, letters and music.

The prizes were announced by President Dwight D. Eisenhower of Columbia University.

"South Pacific," the latest success of composer Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein, II, is an adaptation of James A. Mitchner's book "Tales of the South Pacific," which won a Pulitzer prize of its own for fiction in 1948.

Best Novel Picked

The Rodgers-and-Hammerstein team received a special pulitzer award, but no prize, for their earlier musical hit, "Oklahoma," in 1944.

The prizes, which carry grants of $500 each to the individual winners, have been given for the last 33 years under the will of the late newspaper publisher Joseph Pulitzer.

The 1950 prize for fiction went to A. B. Guthrie for his best-selling historical novel, "The Way West."

The prize for meritorious public service by a newspaper was split this year between the Chicago Daily News and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch for their joint stories revealing the presence of 51 Illinois newspapermen on the state payroll.

Berryman Cartoon Wins

The articles were written by George Thiem and Roy J. Harris.

The prize for the newspapers is a gold medal instead of cash.

The other 10 prizes were:

Distinguished reporting of National affairs—Edwin O. Guthman of the Seattle Times for his stories that cleared Prof. Melvin Rader of the University of Washington of charges of Communism after a state investigation. His series, part detective work and part news writing, dug up evidence that led to the young professor's public clearance by the University Administration.

Local affairs—Meyer Berger of the New York Times for his reporting of the neighborhood pistol slaying of Howard Unruh, berserk war veteran, at Camden, N. J., last September.

International affairs—Edmuhd Stevens of the Christian Science Monitor for the series, "this is Russia—uncensored." The stories were summarized in a series distributed by the Associated Press.

Editorial writing — Carl M. Saunders, editor of the Jackson, Mich., Citizen-Patriot, for his editorial that led congress to designate Memorial Day as as day of prayer for peace.

Cartooning — James T. Berryman of the Washington Star. His cartoon, "all set for a super-secret session," showed a congressional committee hearing scene surrounded by a forest of microphones, television cameras and other symbols of publicity. Berryman's father, the late Clifford K. Berryman, also won a Pulitzer prize for cartooning in 1944. It was the first time a father and son both have attained the honor.

Negro Poetess Acclaimed

News photograph—Bill Crouch of the Oakland Tribune for his action shot of a stunting plane barely missing a huge B-29 bomber over a California field. The picture, showing the aircraft only a few feet apart, moved on the Associated Press wirephoto network last Oct. 3'

Most distinguished book on U. S. history—O. W. Larkin of Smith College, Northampton, Mass., for his "Art and Life in America."

Biography—Samuel Flagg Bemis of Yale University for "John Quincy Adams and the foundations of American Foreign Policy." Bemis was the only two-time winner on the 1950 list, having taken an earlier prize in 1927.

A Negro poetess, Miss Gwendolyn Brooks of Chicago, won the award for verse with her "Annie Allen," a story of Negro life in a combination of ballad form and modern idiom.

The prize for music went to Gian-Carlo Menotti, Italian-born composer of modern opera, whose prize-winning production, "The Consul," is a new broadway sellout. It is a story of frustration in attempts to escape from an unnamed European police state. It also is the winner of the New York drama circle critics award.

A special Pulitzer award, the annual $1,500 traveling scholarship to an art student found "the most promising and deserving," went to Leonard Everett Fisher of Brooklyn.

Closing Of Venus Plant Provides A Lesson In Industrial Relations

THE closing of the Venus Sewing company plant in Escanaba is an unexpected development and an unwelcome one in the community's industrial expansion program.

It is also a very good lesson for the city and the Chamber of Commerce industrial committee. The Venus plant was one of the first industries brought to Escanaba over six years ago when the community's industrial development program was being formulated.

To encourage the Venus company to establish in Escanaba, the city purchased the building which the sewing company now occupies. The company sought and received a five year rent-free lease. In addition to the purchase price of the property, the city spent considerable money in remodelling the building to meet the company's needs.

A rental agreement was made with the company at the expiration of the five year lease but Venus has never paid its rent to the city and is now in arrears more than a year. It may be presumed, of course, that the city will act to recover from the Venus company what is owed in back rent.

The obvious lesson is that companies seeking to get something for nothing usually are not the companies that have the most to offer for industrial betterment of a community. As it turned out the Venus stake in Escanaba was insufficient to encourage the company to remain here.

It is undeniable that the location of the Venus plant here for the past six years has been beneficial to the community. The plant has provided rather steady employment for a number of local girls and women.

At one time the company had 150 women on its payroll here and at the time the local plant ceased production, there were 70 persons employed. Moreover, the company has built a supply of trained labor in the sewing trade that is an asset to the community.

The operation of the Venus plant plant also undoubtedly was a factor in the decision of the Eisendrath Glove company of Chicago to locate here. The glove company is reportedly meeting a degree of success with the Escanaba plant, also established in a city-owned building but under rental conditions more satisfactory to the city.

The building that has been occupied by the Venus company is an ideal factory site, worth at today's real estate values considerably more money than the city has invested in the property. That factor, plus benefits already derived by the steady employment of from 70 to 150 women in the community for the past six years, amply has justified the city's expenditures in the Venus building.

It is not anticipated that the city will have much difficulty finding an industrial tenant for the property to compensate for the economic loss of the Venus plant. And it is a foregone conclusion that the city will insist upon a more equitable rental arrangement than was provided for in the Venus deal.

Wage Boost May Retard Construction

TIME will tell what effect, if any, the increase in union carpenter rates in Escanaba will have upon the community's building program. Considerable apprehension has been expressed that a rate increase at this time will retard the construction program, particularly if the carpenter rate boost should serve as a precedent to a general rate increase in the building trades industry.

It has been estimated, for instance, that the effect of the carpenter rate increase alone on the city's projected water filtration plant project may result in an increased cost of $14,000 to $20,000 on this one construction job. The city is apprehensive that the higher costs may actually result in a low bid that exceeds the funds available from the water bond issue.

The school board is fearful that higher construction costs may force a postponement of plans to construct a new high school building, as well as plans for other school buildings contemplated under the Bonifas bequests to the schools. The same fears have been expressed by parochial school officials who likewise have contemplated the construction of at least one parochial grade school, as well as a Catholic central high school.

If any drastic effect is felt upon construction here, however, as a result of higher wage rates, it is most likely to develop in the home building field. Costs of new home construction are already so high that many prospective builders have given up on their dream home ideas. The labor rate boost will not improve this situation any.

It could be that the carpenters, like the coal miners, are pricing their services out of the market.

Newsprint Making Increases In The South

DEMAND for newsprint paper throughout the world is growing, and concern was expressed at a recent newspaper publeshers' meeting in New York about the adequacy of future supplies.

The building by southern newspaper publishers of the co-operative Coosa River mill in Alabama was cited, as a move to keep the money for newsprint at home instead of sending it to the north and to Canada. The bill, with an older and smaller one in Texas owned by the company, will produce 220,000 tons of newsprint a year. This is the equivalent of more than a quarter of the newsprint consumed in the 14 southern states.

The fact is that the south has certain great advantages when it comes to pulpwood or other forest product output. The tree crop can he harvested under fairly equable weather conditions the year around. And the trees grow three or four times faster than they do in the north country.

The Coosa River plant is expected to be a perpetual installation. Trees are planted as fast as they are cut, or faster. Some species grow as fast as six inches in a month under favorable conditions. Such a rate is impossible in any northern clime. The tree crop, therefore, replaces itself at a rate which cannot be approached elsewhere.

The Jacksonville Times-Union was one of the first papers to use the Coosa newsprint. The latter is a little darker than the northern article, but it is expected that this will be overcome shortly. The southern wood pitch which was for years a detriment in newsprint manufacture has proved a blessing. It is now extracted without any trouble and is used in chemical plants for the manufacture of many useful things.

Other southern paper plants are on the way, but no new paper capacity is planned for Canada. It is certain that more newsprint mills will rise in the south, which is now experiencing the country's greatest boom in new industries of many kinds.

Business Arithmetic In Steel Mills

CITIZENS who trouble to glance at the business pages must be puzzled when they read that steel mill operations in the Pittsburgh area for a recent week are set at 102.4 per cent of capacity.

Just offhand, that sounds like the mills are going to produce more steel than they are capable of turning out. How come?

The answer, believe it or not, is that when the steel industry says 100 per cent of capacity" it doesn't mean it. Normally it figures that a certain part of its productive plant will always be undergoing repairs or shut down for some other reason. So it doesn't count this idle percentage in measuring capacity.

Under extreme pressure, companies may put off needed repairs and keep facilities going that ought to be idle. Thus they get output that exceeds the "100 per cent" usually rated as the ceiling in other statistics.

ADD TO YOUR VOCABULARY

Here is a graceful and valuable word for your vocabulary: criterion. The word is from the Greek kriterion, "a test; a means of judging."

In English, criterion expresses the idea of a standard by means of which anything may be correctly judged or evaluated. Pronounce it: kry-TEER-ee-un. The plural is criteria, pronounced: kry-TEER-ee-uh.

How to use it. A man's deeds are the criteria of his character. The speaker's opinion is interesting, but I cannot accept it as a criterion. Truth is the sole criterion of knowledge.

Q. Will you please discuss for our English class the origin of the word companion? One of the girls says it comes from the word "bread." How can that be?—D. B.

Answer: The answer does not derive from the English word, bread, but form the Latin com-, "together," plus panis, "bread"; therefore, a taking of bread (food) together. The word company has the same origin.

The New Man

By Gordon Martin

MARTIN

When the new man comes to take a job, he's often ill at ease, and he's likely over-anxious as he tries his best to please. He must learn to do a lot of things he never did before, and because he's new, he sometimes thinks he'll never learn the score. Then there's nothing quite so welcome as a friendly word or two, and a smile from office veterans will clean the slate anew.

It reminds an elder statesman of the days when he was green, and he wondered if he'd ever understand the office scene. He remembers that he made mistakes which caused him much concern, and he hoped that those in high command would give him time to learn. And because they did, he knew success and vowed he'd not forget, and today, when new men come around, he tries to pay his debt.

He's the one who takes the time to help the youngster with his task, and to answer all the questions that a puzzled kid will ask. And he knows that when another man appears to join the staff, it's the fellow he befriended who will help him stand the gaff. There's a heap of satisfaction 'way down deep inside the heart, for the man who takes the time to help another make his start

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Ex-Communist Louis Budenz swung his Red brush in a wide arc the other day and smeared two dozen more Americans as Communists, including a marine hero and a famous editor.

He delivered his new Red list behind closed doors to the senate subcommittee investigating Senator McCarthy's charges. The only name that leaked out afterward was reported triumphantly by McCarthy on the senate floor—Haldore Hanson. However, Senator McMahon of Connecticut disagreed with McCarthy.

The inside fact, is McCarthy depended upon Senator Hickenlooper of Iowa for his information, because the subcommittee refused to give McCarthy a copy of the secret minutes. In fact, the session was so secret that Chairman Tydings of Maryland asked Budenz to identify his list by numbers instead of names. However, the senators got so mixed up with the numbers that Tydings finally agreed to let Budenz use names.

"I understand in light of the vote we took before lunch that this whole record is going to be secret, is it not," demanded Senator Lodge of Massachusetts.

"I want to make this extra secret," agreed Tydings.

However, this column believes the public is entitled to know what Budenz is saying on such a vital question.

THE BUDENZ LIST

Among those whom he branded as Communists are such prominent Americans as the late Brig. Gen. Evan Carlson, the marine hero who led the famed "Carlson's Raiders" and originated the "Gung Ho" battle cry that terrified the Japs; Edgar Snow, an associate editor of Saturday Evening Post; Joseph Barnes, former foreign editor for the New York Herald Tribune; Anna Louise Strong, who was kicked out of Russia as an American spy; Lawrence Rossinger of the New York Times; Mary Kleeck of the Russian Sage Foundation; Gunther Stein, well-known writer.

Budenz' list also includes Harriett Lucy Moore, of the American-Russian Institute; Frederick Vandenbilt Field, who has never denied that he was a Communist; Victor Yakhontoff, a writer on the Red army; Ella Winter, Peggy Snow, T. A. Bisson, a writer on Soviet affairs; Andrew Steiger, James S. Allen, a member of the Communist national commitee; Albert Rhys Williams, writer on Lenin's life; and Haldore Hanson.

Hanson was named by Budenz in spite of Senator McMahon's public statement to the contrary. In fact, McMahon questioned Budenz sharply about Hanson, declaring:

"This rather surprises me, Mr. Budenz, because he (Hanson) made about as forthright a statement as I have ever heard from a witness. He was never a member of any Communist-front organization of any kind or character. I want to say to you that the impression he made on me was excellent—fooled me completely."

SENATORIAL QUIZ

Then the senator from Connecticut began digging in: "Hanson is in the state department at this minute working on the point four program, and I would like, therefore, to have you pretty carefully give your testimony on him."

Budenz insisted that his information on Hanson was "not gossip around headquarters but official information."

"I carried the name with me," Budenz added.

"Who gave it to you?" demanded McMahon.

"Well, as I recall at the moment, it was Jack Stachel," replied Budenz. He suggested that the committee give him time to browse through the files of the Daily Worker, however, in order to refresh his memory.

"In other words," summed up Tydings, "your information that this man is a Communist is based on oral evidence that you received from somebody else?"

"That is correct," admitted Budenz.

MARINE CORPS GENERAL

McMahon also wanted to know who on the list, besides Hanson, work for the state department.

"I should say that very few are," replied Budenz.

"Have they ever been employees?" McMahon persisted.

"Yes," recalled Budenz, "there was General Evan S. Carlson, formerly employed by the U. S. government. He was a Communist before he was a general."

"I have got a bad cold in my left ear and didn't hear you," broke in Tydings.

"I know Carlson was a general. Therefore he was part of the governmental machinery," repeated Budenz.

"You know he was a Communist?" snapped McMahon. "Do you mean you know him in the same sense that you know Lattimore was a Communist?"

"No, sir, I was introduced to General Carlson," Budenz shot back.

Referring to Saturday Evening Post Editor Edgar Snow, Budenz explained: "He got in trouble with the party, wrote something wrong, and he had to amend his book on orders of the party."

MOSCOW HATES TEARS

Budenz also tried to explain how Anna Louise Strong happened to be bounced out of Russia as a Communist spy.

"I don't think she was a spy, but I think she made some mistakes," he suggested. "You see, she disagreed with the Soviet leadership. They used to put her on the spot in Soviet Russia, and she would weep tears and go right out and repeat Stalin's lies. What can you do with a person like that? She would break down and take recourse in tears."

Though Budenz applied the Red brush freely, he let a few people off the Communist hook. When McMahon asked whether Philip Jessup had been a Communist, Budenz replied: "No sig, not to my knowledge. I never heard him mentioned as a member of the party."

"I am pleased to hear you say you don't know him as a Communist," said the senator from Connecticut. "I have known him

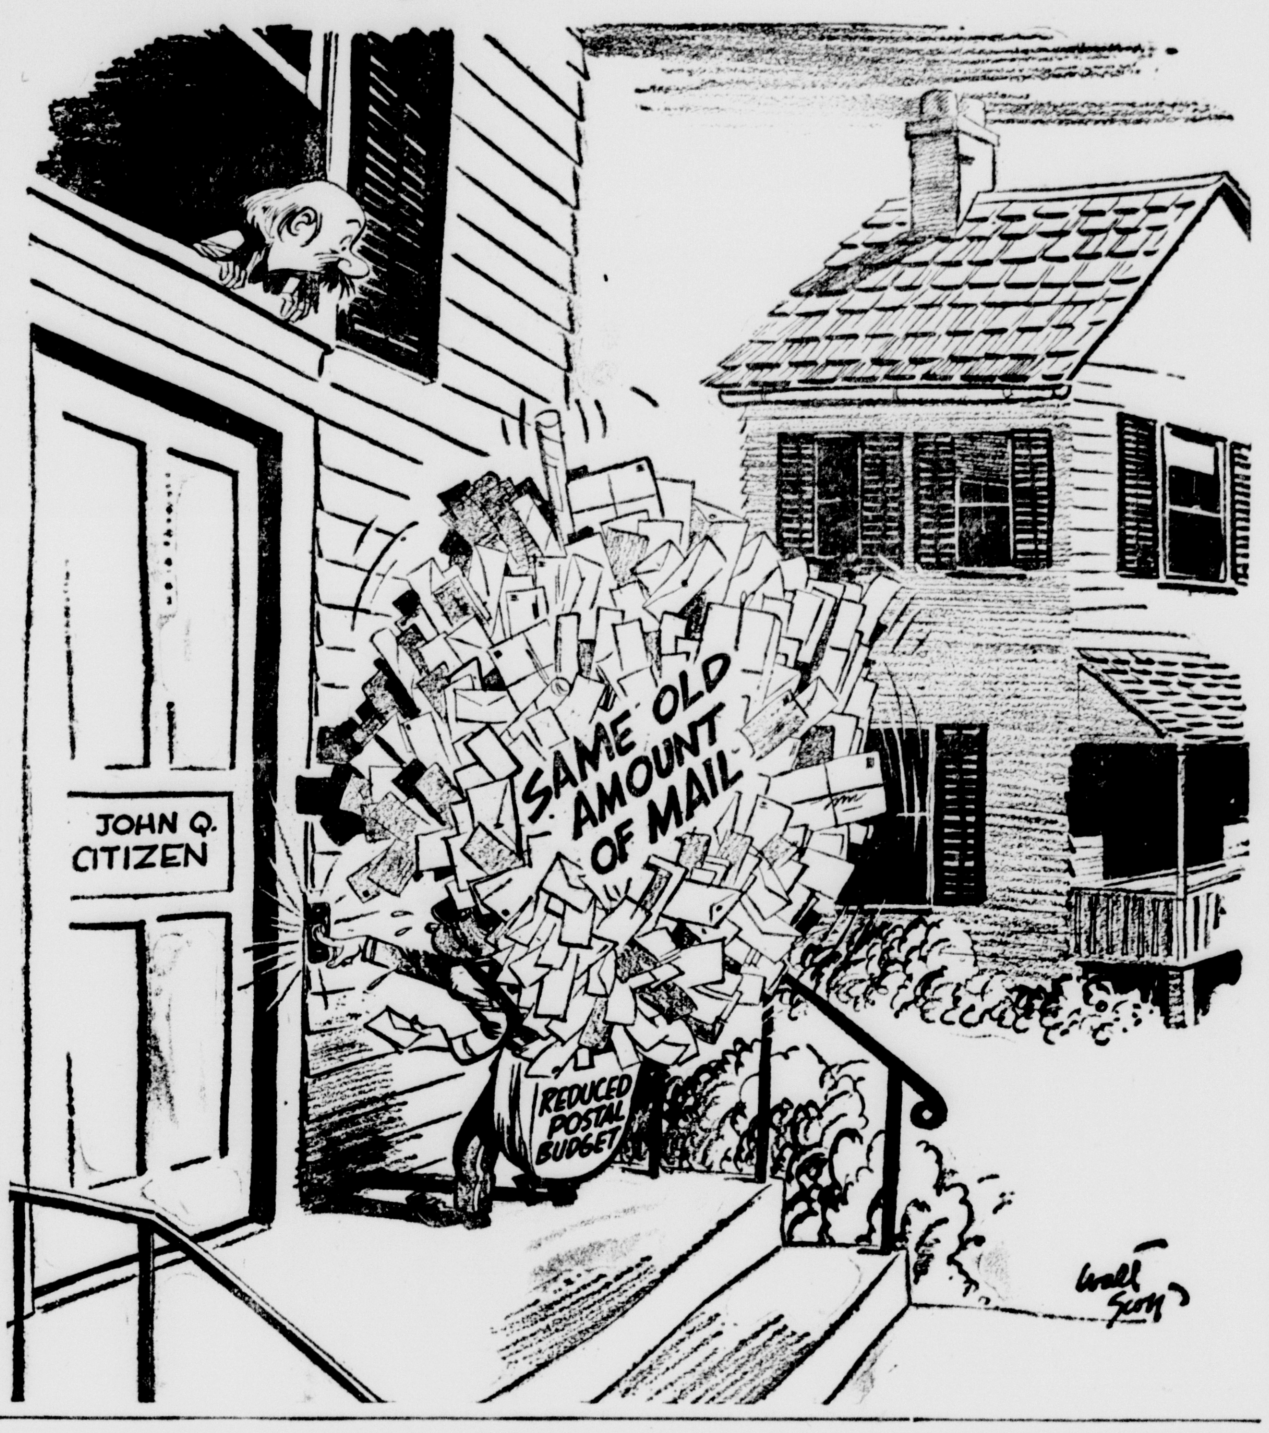
The Postman Rings But Once–



It's Dry, But Kansas Farmers Have Learned How To Tie Down The Soil

By BLISS ISELY
Special Correspondent Of The Wall Street Journal

DODGE CITY, Kans.—Folks are not downhearted in the former Dust Bowl wheat country.

They've had some uncomfortably dry weather this year. Arid winds have lashed their land. They've suffered some real losses But they've learned a lot about "tying land down" in the last decade. And they are convinced they are never going to let their soil blow away again as it did in the 1930's.

What was the old Dust Bowl? Roughly this; Northeastern New Mexico, southeastern Colorado, the north Texas Panhandle, western Oklahoma, and southwestern Kansas—where this famed wheat town is located.

Dust In The Pictures

"Most of the dust that made the headlines and the picture magazines recently," says H. W. Westmeyer, county farm agent here at Dodge City, "came from areas in central Kansas and Oklahoma—outside the old Dust Bowl area proper — where they ordinarily have plenty of rain. Never having needed to protect their fields before, they let them go uncovered."

He adds: "I claim that not a single farm here in Ford County has lost an appreciable amount of top soil through wind erosion this year. We lost plenty in the 1930's, because we had not yet learned to tie it down." Ford County last year was the top wheat producer in Kansas—which, in turn, is the nation's number one wheat state.

Farmers have several ways of keeping their land from blowing away. Among the more important is leaving it fallow—without a crop—at intervals. A crop takes the moisture out of soil, making it susceptible to blowing. Fallowing has been practiced by a few farmers on the High Plains for half a century or more, but it has become almost universal practice since the bitter experience of the 1930's. Also helpful in keeping the soil out of the air is stubble-mulch tillage—leaving part of the stubble of a grain crop on the surface of the ground to prevent blowing when no crop is growing or being planted.

Free From The Blues

Backed up by these land-protecting practices, and rather plump bank accounts from recent bumper harvests, farmers in these parts are almost to a man free from the blues. In a recent drive of 674 miles through this country, one wheat expert did not find a single farmer who did not feel confident that he and God could handle any troubles that might come.

"The pessimists," said one, "left the country during the drought of the 1930's."

For a show of real optimism, the traveler can stop at the village of Bloom in southern Ford County. There a farmer Co-operative recently has been pouring concrete to expand its elevator capacity from 100,000 to 300,000 bushels.

"We'd hate to harvest a bumper crop and have no place to put the wheat," explains Walter Weddle, president of the Co-op and also president of the county farm bureau. "Anyway, even if we don't make a crop, next year's coming."

These farmers are slow to write off any year's crop on early spring dry weather. Said James Winkleman, standing in his 660 acre wheat field near Bloom: "This High Plains country will promise the most and then give the least and then promise the least and give the most."

He added: "Take two years ago. Nary a drop of rain in March or April. Then on May 4 came a nice rain and I harvested from 25 to 28 bushels an acre." The national ten-year average yield for wheat fields is less than 16 bushels an acre.

All this, however, doesn't mean that this year's wheat in the Southwest has not suffered severe damage. The damage has been extensive—with the Texas crop hardest hit.

Estimates of the total damage vary from day to day—and from "expert to "expert" among the appraisers. It is at present believed by some experienced grain men that the combined wheat crop of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado may not be much more than 235 million bushels. Last year these four states harvested about 375 million bushels.

Texas Hard-Hit

Many experts think hard-hit Texas won't produce more than 20 million bushels of wheat this year, and some think the harvest may be as low as 15 million bushels. Last year Texas produced 102 million bushels.

All agree, though, that the damage as indicated now doesn't add up to anything like a prospective wheat shortage for the nation.

The country for years has been producing far more wheat than it can consume. And with the era of huge post-war exports rapidly fading, big stocks of grain are piling up.

At the beginning of this month, total wheat supplies in the country were estimated at 663 million bushels by the Agriculture Department. On April 1 a year ago, stocks stood at 585 million bushels. Two years ago the total was 480 million bushels.

The pattern of export charts is sharply downward. In the year ended last June some 500 million bushels of wheat (and flour) left the country. Not too many months ago the Government prophecy for the 12-month period ending next June was 450 million bushels, but downward revisions of the official estimate have since brought it to 325 million bushels.

Many private grain men—and some in the Government—think even the 325-million-bushel figure is too high for this season. They doubt that the total will be more than 300 million bushels.

Letters From The People

Readers of The Escanaba Daily Press are invited to submit their viewpoint on questions of public interest for publication in this column. Please be brief and avoid personalities. The writer's name and address must accompany each letter, but will be withheld on request.

The Paternalistic State

Dear Editor:

Noticed in the Escanaba Daily Press, Tuesday, that the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and the Gladstone Chamber of Commerce have requested Governor Williams to help provide a market for the surplus smelt that are now glutting the markets. To me this move seems to be only another incident by which the American people are assisting to create the Paternalistic State and the Welfare State. Business men are decrying the fact that the United States is on the road to socialism, if not communism. And here are two organizations, which are supposed to represent the business and industrial men of Delta ounty, running to Papa for help as soon as a problem perplexes them.

The writer can well remember when smelt were much less well thought of than now, and when there were hundreds of thousands of pounds going to waste. At that time, about fifteen years ago, the men of this community did not rush off to Lansing for help. Instead they organized a Smelt Jamboree, they organized a contest between business and civic leaders and sportsmen, to dip smelt, and then these smelt were sent in souvenir packages to people throughout the whole middlewest, and a market was created. Not only was a market for smelt created, but thousands of people came into this community and left hundreds of thousands of dollars with the merchants and resort owners and hotel people.

So far have we now advanced toward the Paternalistic State that even leaders among the business men run to Papa in Lansing, to seek his divine help in creating a market for smelt. I am surprised that these have not even gone to his excellency Harry Truman for the same purpose.

Karas Memorial Fund

Dear Editor:

I am very much interested in the plan to construct a Bandshell in the park as a memorial to the late Frank Karas. The city needs one, and it would be a most suitable memorial to a helping friend of man. He gave the best part of his life teaching music to our young people and thousands in our city have enjoyed his musical concerts and programs.

This man who touched the lives of so many young and old people, made many friends who cherish his memory.

With some publicity and effort, these many friends and citizens, I feel sure, will be willing and happy to assist in erecting such a suitable Memorial, and especially when a Band-shell is a dire need in our lovely park.

James G. Ward, Sr.

Want, and plaint of Woe,
O never, never turn away thine ear!
Forlorn, in this bleak wilderness below,
Ah! what were man, should
Heaven refuse to hear!

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

OLD SWINDLE GAME—There has been a revival of the old "Spanish swindle" that at one time rooked hundreds of Americans out of hard-earned dollars. The swindle game came by its name from Europe, where it was practiced in one form or another for many years, with the swindlers located just across the border in Spain.

The swindle is basically the same as it was a couple centuries ago: A purported Spaniard is in jail just across the border, and he has a small fortune in money in a trunk or suit case held at a customs office at the border.

The "jailed" Spaniard writes to strangers across the border and asks them to put up the necessary money to get his luggage and the fortune out of hock — with the promise that he will as a reward give him a third of the money in his trunk or suit case.

* * *

DOWN MEXICO WAY—Gothard Arntzen, Escanaba architect, is the most recent person in this community to receive one of the swindle letters. It was written from Mexico City on April 19.

"Dear Sir," goes the letter, "A person who knows you and has highly spoken about you has made me trust you a very delicate matter of which depends the entire future of my daughter as well as my existence.

"I am in prison sentenced for bankruptcy and I wish to know if you are willing to help me save a sum of $385,000 which I have in (bank bills) inside of a secret place in a trunk that is deposited in a custom house in the United States—"

* * *

The COME ON—Strangely enough, that proposition has fooled some of the more gullible in the past. They rise to the bait offered in the next paragraph:

"To compensate you for all your troubles I will give you the third part of said sum of $385,000."

* * *

MYSTERY, ADVENTURE—The Spanish gentleman behind the bars who makes the generous offer signs himself only as "V" because "I can not receive your reply directly in the prison."

But he has a friend in whom is placed his "entire trust" and advises that the answer to his letter be addressed to Sr. Elias Torres, Wagner 96 Altos, Col. Peralvillo, Mexico, D. F.

Here is mystery and the promise of adventure that might appeal to some U. S. citizens.

* * *

AND ROMANCE—The stage is set and the trap is baited for the prospective victim.

If Senor Torres receives a likely reply to the letter, he will respond with an appeal for the generous American to come to Mexico—not forgetting to bring his cash with him to get the jail bird's fortune out of hock.

If the American follows through and does go to Mexico, he will be met by a very charming gentleman—and introduced to a beautiful senorita, the "daughter" of the imprisoned man with the absentee fortune. The daughter is young and innocent and very, very grateful to the big, strong, rich American.

* * *

THE AWAKENING—The victim is treated to a series of melodramatic incidents that indicate someone is trying to "steal" the fortune and leave the poor little senorita penniless.

All the while she is throwing herself into the American's arms in fear and trembling. If the guy is sucker enough he dishes out the dough to Senor Torres.

Things happen fast from that point on. Senor Torres returns unexpectedly to find the senorita and the American in a compromising situation and saves the senorita from a fate worse than death.

Senor Torres and the girl express great indignation and depart—with the American's cash.

This leaves the American only one thing to do: Go back home a sadder but a wiser man.

So goes the old Spanish swindle that still nets a few suckers every year.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

London — Great Britain abandoned her struggle in lower Norway today and, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons, snatched her battle-tired troops from Angalsnes, where German bombers are concentrating.

Escanama—Leon Schram, junior high school teacher, was elected president of the Escanaba district MEA at a meeting yesterday. He succeeds George Ruwitch.

Escanaba — An organization meeting of the Delta County Potato Boosters association will be held here tonight, Harold Lindsay, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce announced today. John P. Norton, president of the C. of C., will be in charge of the meeting, at which officers and a board of directors will be elected.

Nahma—Myrtle Pomeroy has been named valedictorian of this year's graduating class at F. W. Good high school and Miss Effie Hebert is salutatorian.

20 YEARS AGO

Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Parks of Lake Linden visited here yesterday while en route to their home from a winter vacation in Florida. Mr. Parks is secretary of speed for the U. P. State Fair.

Cleveland—The fight over the pending billion-dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with the Bethlehem Steel corporation tonight was in one of the worst legal tangles in the history of American big business.

Escanaba—Miss Veronica Larson, student at Northern State Teachers college at Marquette, received an award pin for a year's work in debate at college exercises this week.

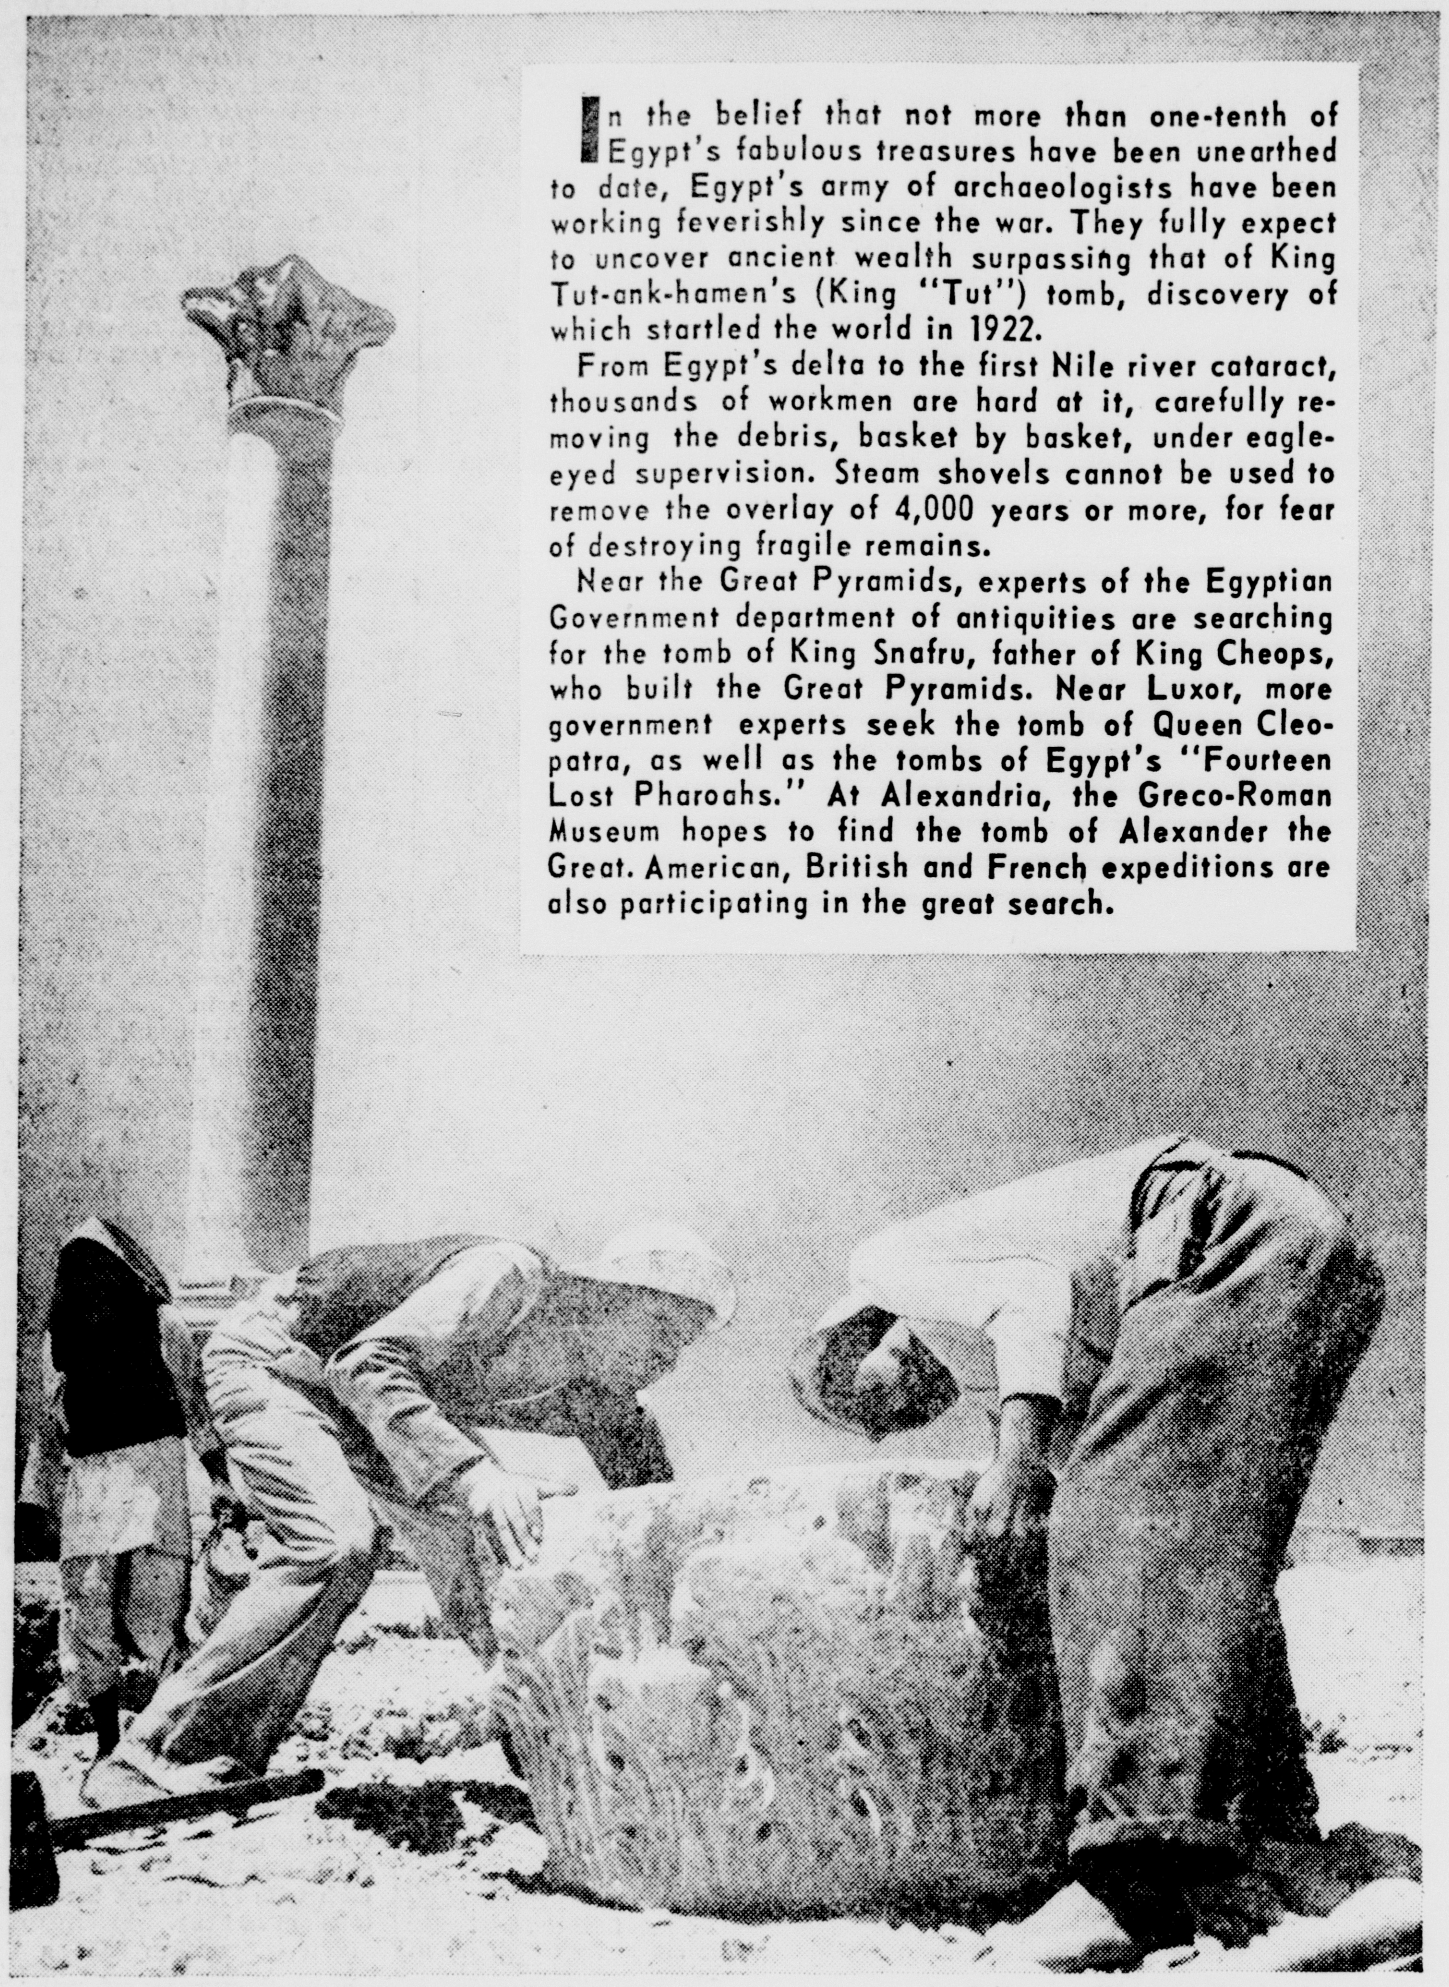
Manistique — Miss Helen Husband, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. I. Hixson of this city, a student of Smith college at Northampton, Mass., is one of a class of 50 students selected to study this year at The Sorbonne, in Paris

TREASURE HUNT

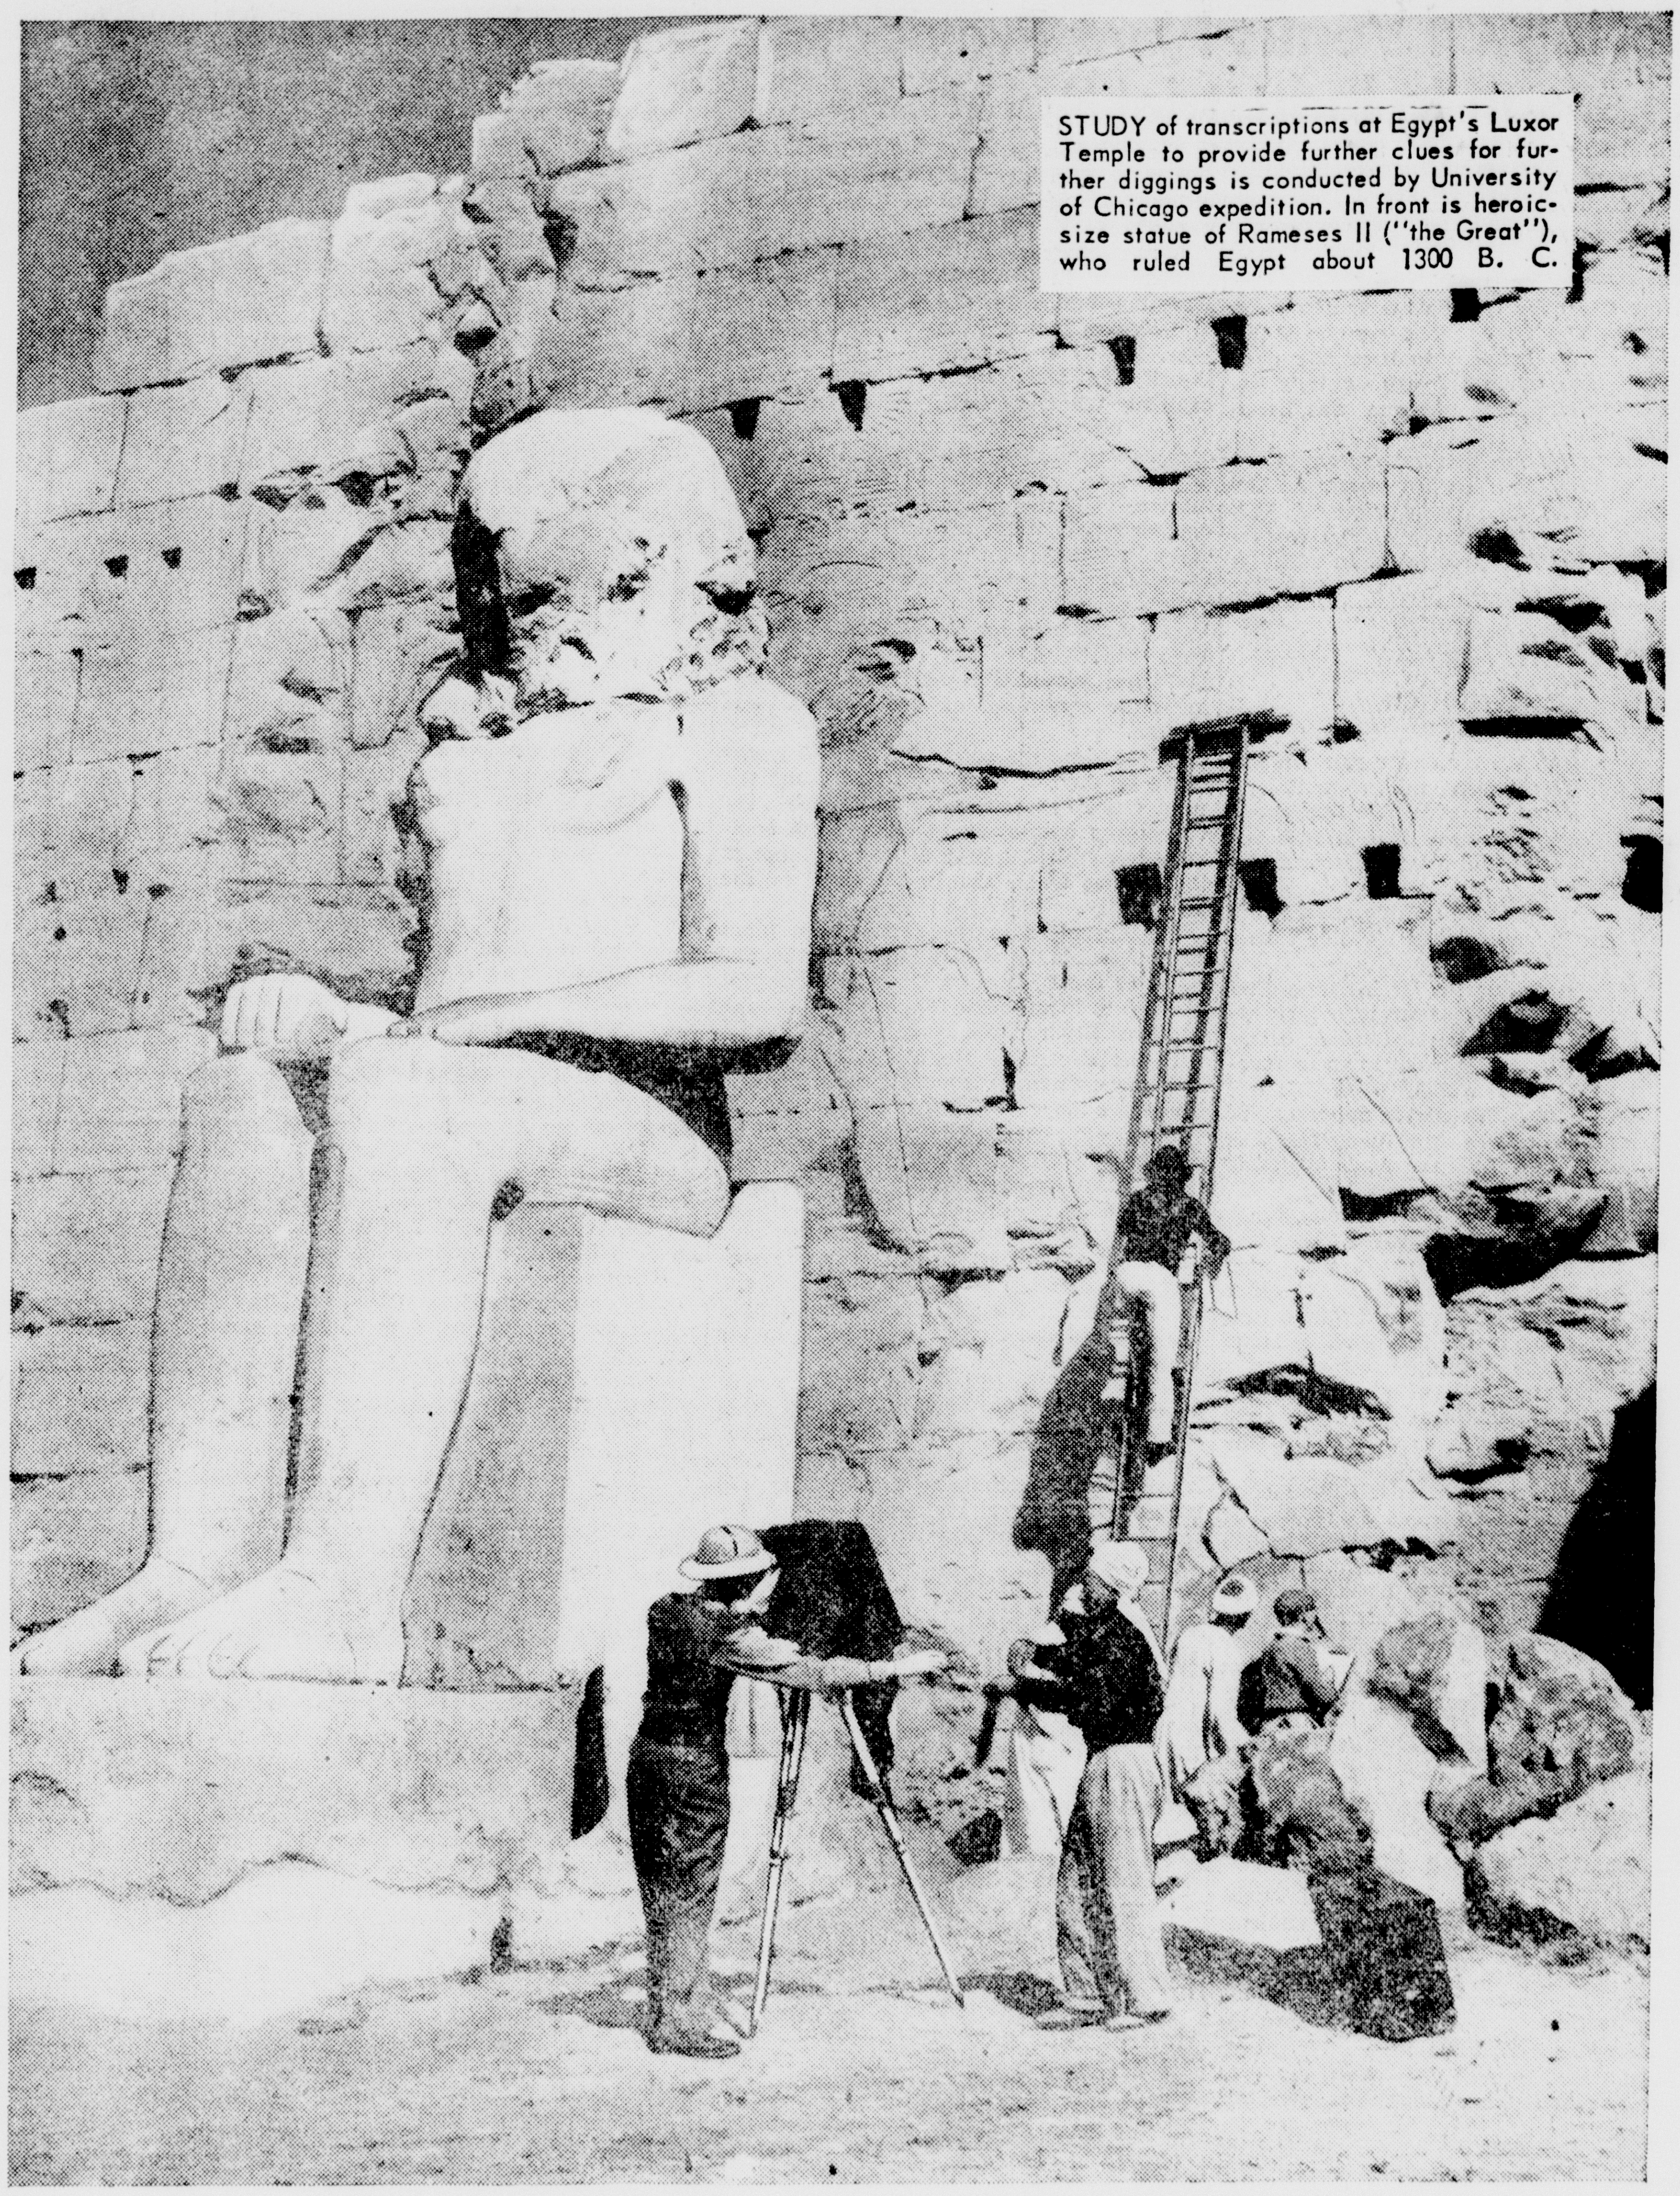
In the belief that not more than one-tenth of Egypt's fabulous treasures have been unearthed to date, Egypt's army of archaeologists have been working feverishly since the war. They fully expect to uncover ancient wealth surpassing that of King Tut-ank-hamen's (King "Tut") tomb, discovery of which startled the world in 1922.

From Egypt's delta to the first Nile river cataract, thousands of workmen are hard at it, carefully removing the debris, basket by basket, under eagle-eyed supervision. Steam shovels cannot be used to remove the overlay of 4,000 years or more, for fear of destroying fragile remains.

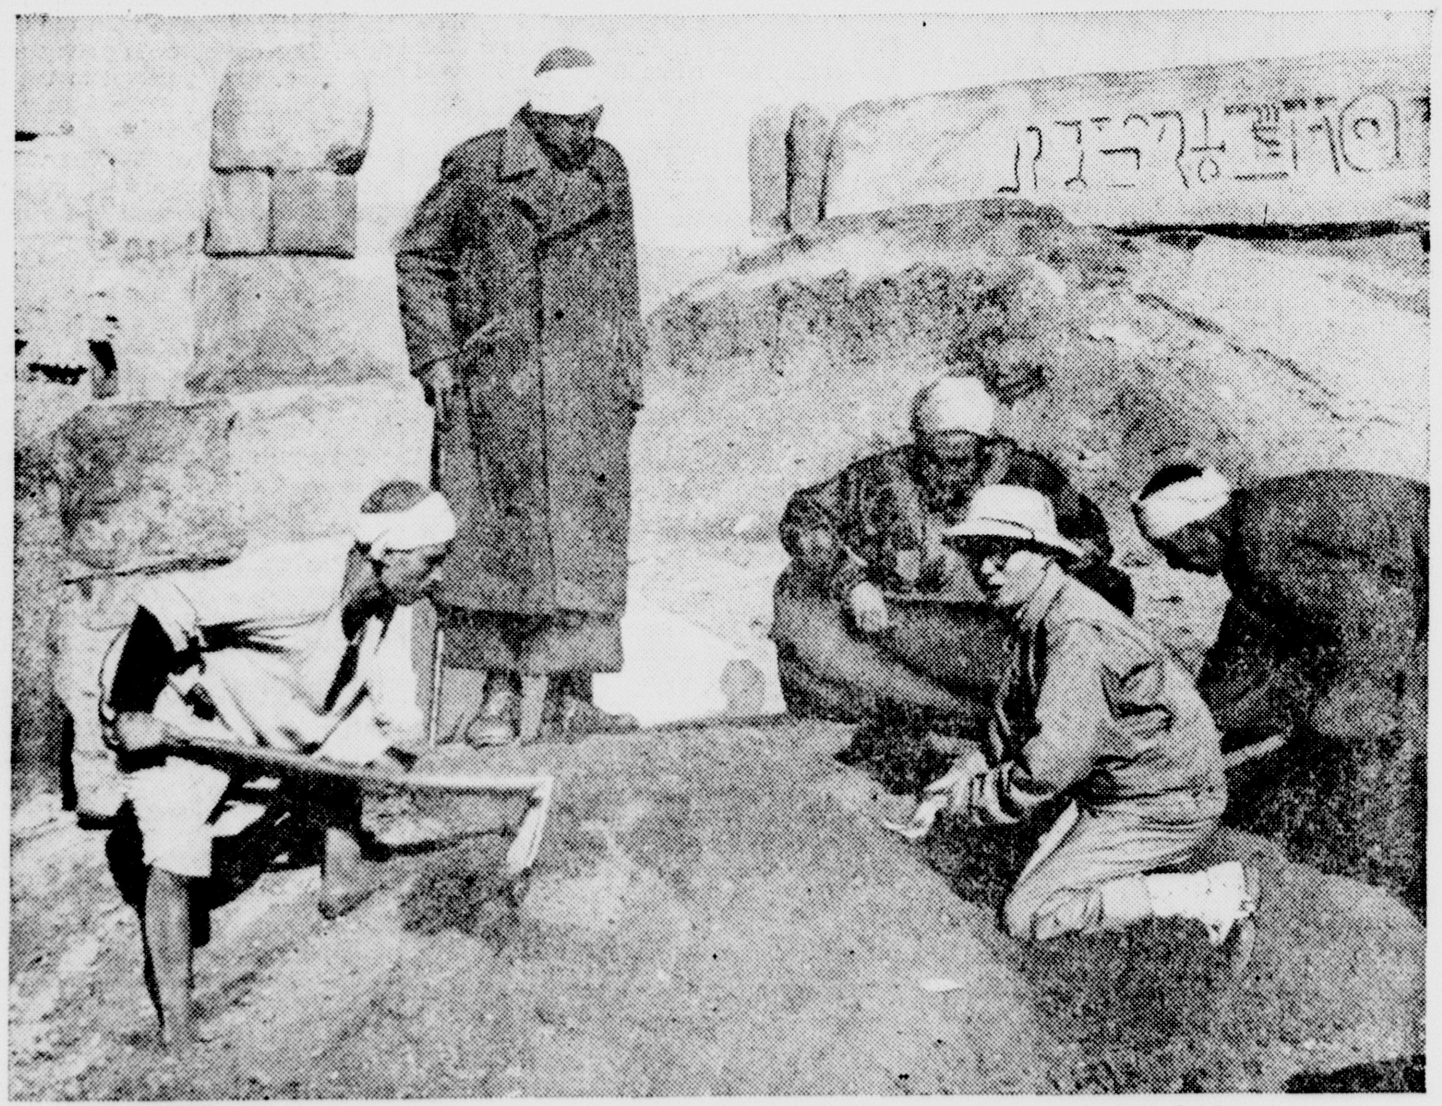
Near the Great Pyramids, experts of the Egyptian Government department of antiquities are searching for the tomb of King Snafru, father of King Cheops, who built the Great Pyramids. Near Luxor, more government experts seek the tomb of Queen Cleopatra, as well as the tombs of Egypt's "Fourteen Lost Pharoahs." At Alexandria, the Greco-Roman Museum hopes to find the tomb of Alexander the Great. American, British and French expeditions are also participating in the great search.



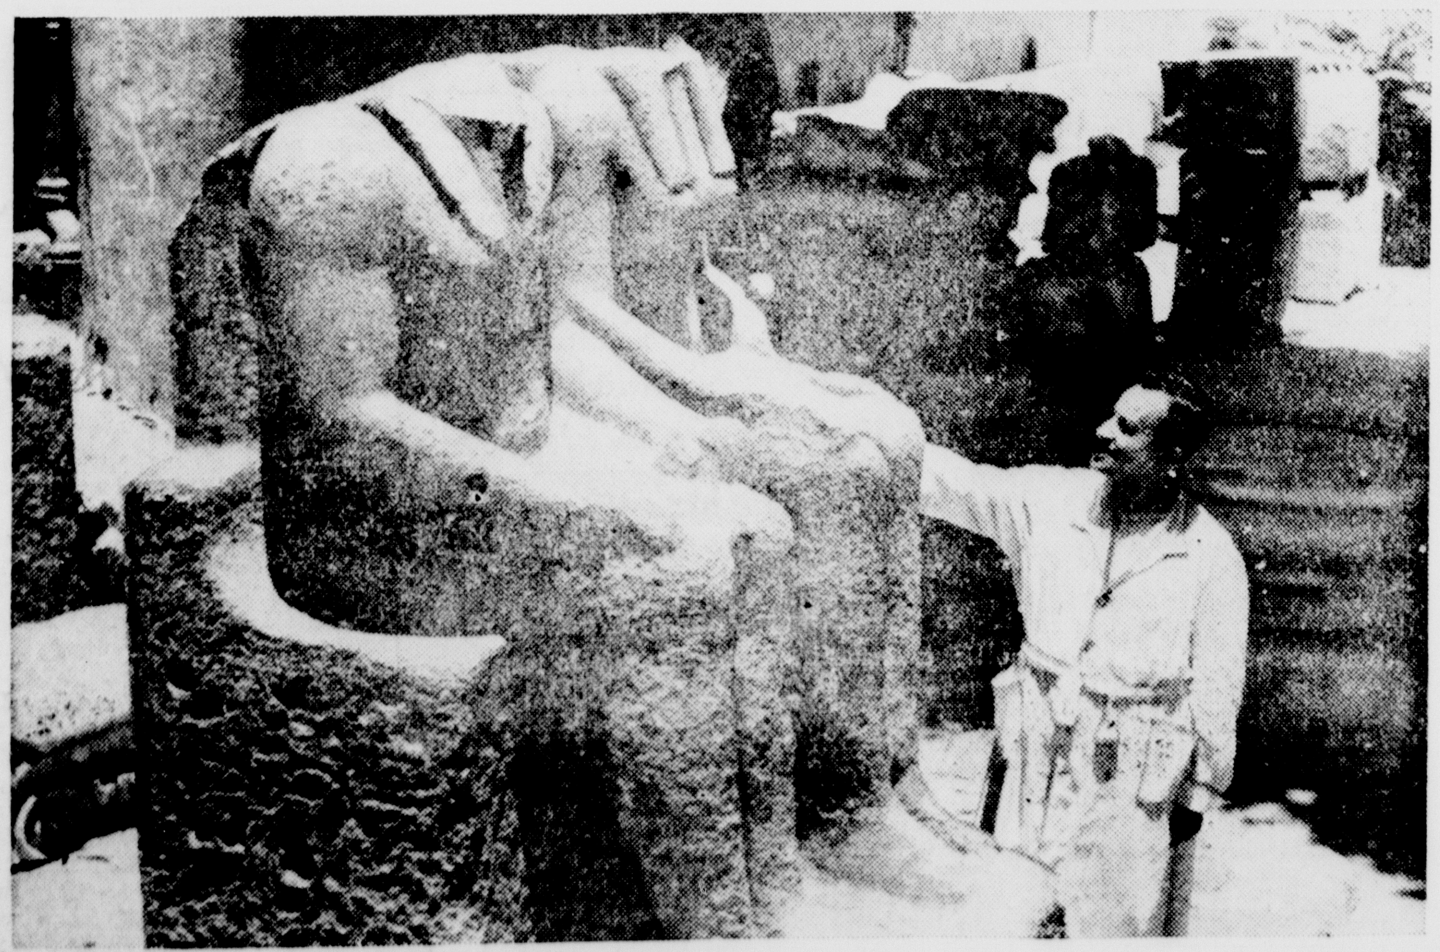
"EASY, THERE." Workers uncover part of a Greek column. Pompey's Pillar is shown in the background.



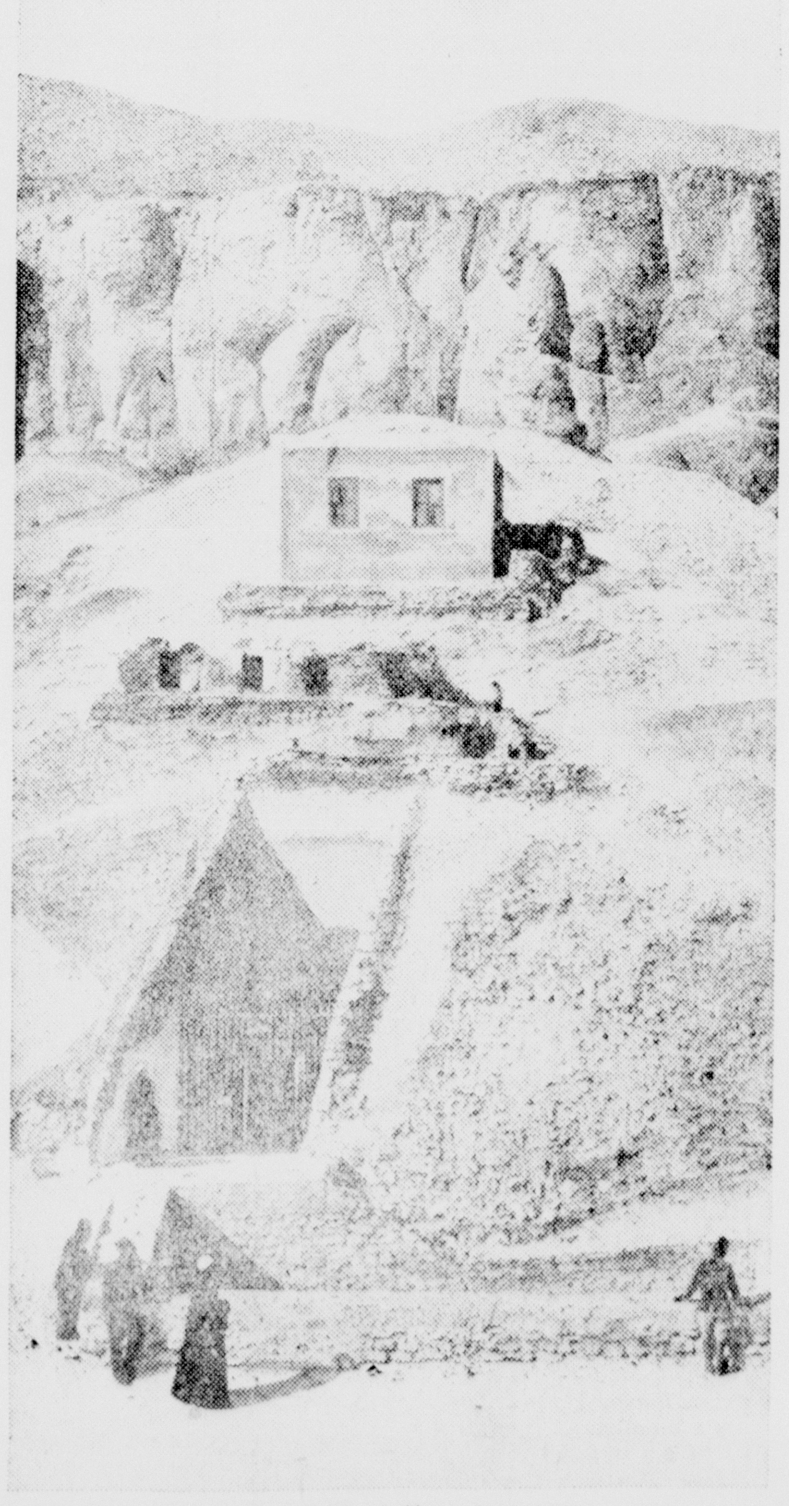
STUDY of transcriptions at Egypt's Luxor Temple to provide further clues for further diggings is conducted by University of Chicago expedition. In front is heroic-size statue of Rameses II ("the Great"), who ruled Egypt about 1300 B. C.



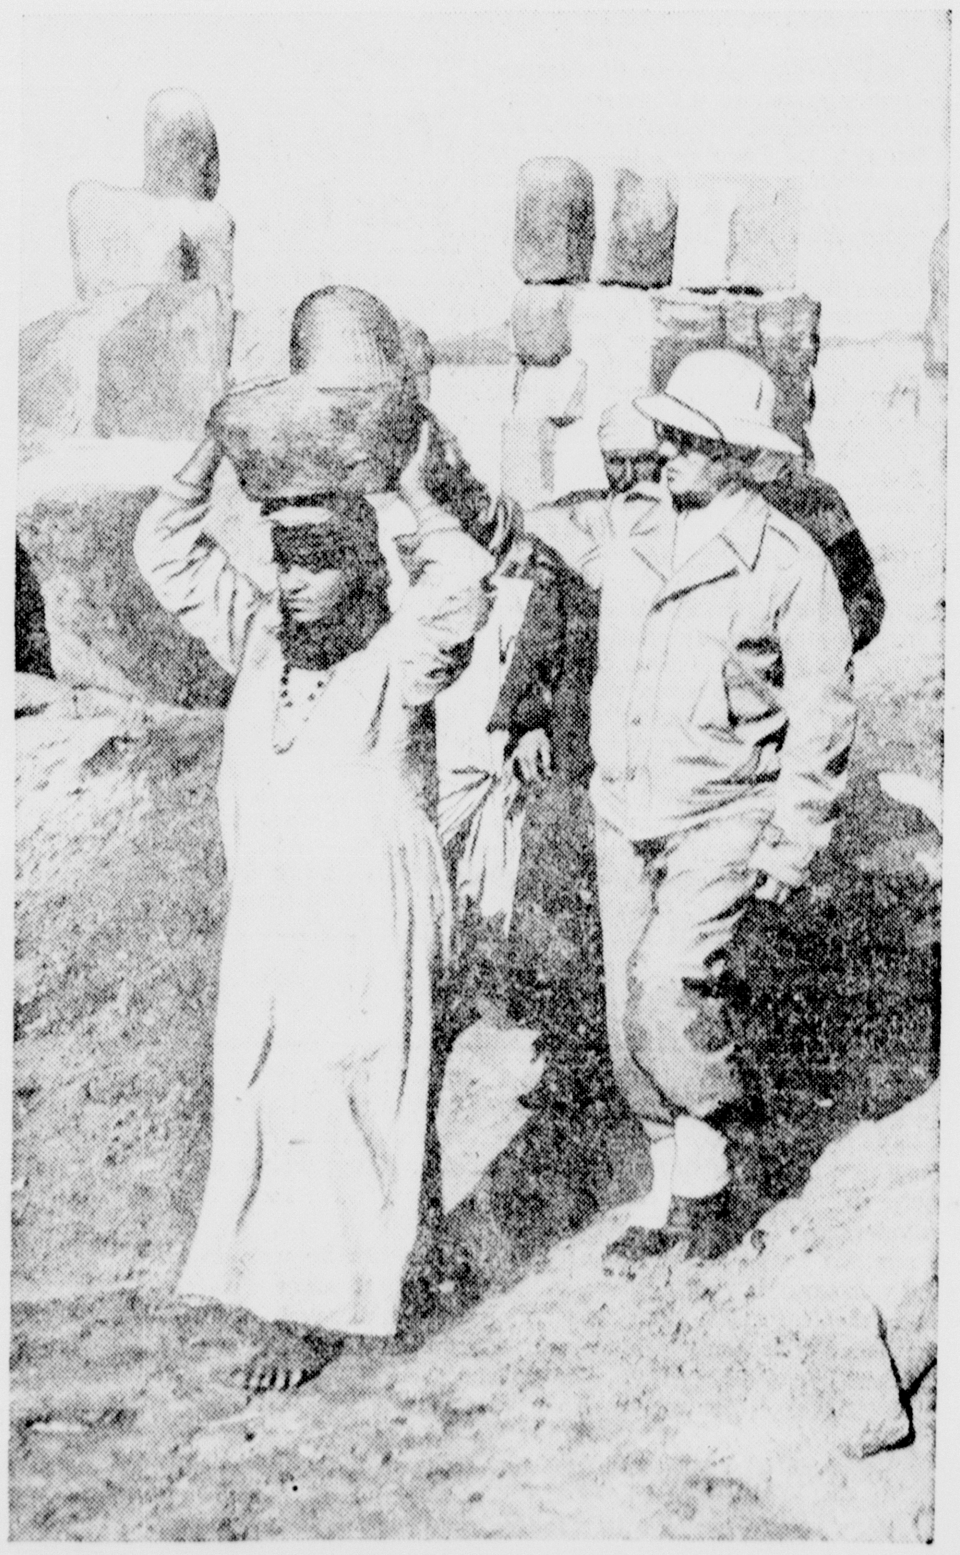
PROGRESS. French Prof. Pierre Montet guides workers at San El Hagar. Valuable find is in prospect.



GRANITE statue of a pharoah and his queen, uncovered near Alexandria, will be sent to Cairo Museum.



ENTRANCE to King "Tut's" tomb near Luxor, found in 1922. Search goes on for more tombs in this area.



NATIVE woman worker balances a new find. Prof. Montet helps.
